Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
> For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hey! Thanks for this info. My day time job is as the accessibility services coordinator at a college, so I am pretty familiar with long COVID and it's effects, as well as am I familiar with ASD (and SPD).

We can definitely address your concerns, as I want to be as supportive as I can through this process. I want to create a treatment plan (to at least have a guideline for what we will be doing), but I know J is seeing a few other therapists as well? Would you all be willing to do an ROI form for me to communicate with them? No worries at all if you don't.

Either way, looking forward to collaborating with you all!

Hi Akhilah!

Happy Saturday! There are a lot of concerns - I've listed a few here... Jackie has several physical health ailments that are similar to those that I have. Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
> Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
> Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
> Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
> Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

Hey! Thanks for this info. My day time job is as the accessibility services coordinator at a college, so I am pretty familiar with long COVID and it's effects, as well as am I familiar with ASD (and SPD).

We can definitely address your concerns, as I want to be as supportive as I can through this process. I want to create a treatment plan (to at least have a guideline for what we will be doing), but I know J is seeing a few other therapists as well? Would you all be willing to do an ROI form for me to communicate with them? No worries at all if you don't.

Either way, looking forward to collaborating with you all!

Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

Hey again, John!

I totally understand and hear your concerns. Here is a short video link to the Portland location and a few pics if you'd like to check it out! Everyone really seems to enjoy this space.
https://youtu.be/tKDQ07XC2Rk

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hey! Thanks for this info. My day time job is as the accessibility services coordinator at a college, so I am pretty familiar with long COVID and it's effects, as well as am I familiar with ASD (and SPD).

We can definitely address your concerns, as I want to be as supportive as I can through this process. I want to create a treatment plan (to at least have a guideline for what we will be doing), but I know J is seeing a few other therapists as well? Would you all be willing to do an ROI form for me to communicate with them? No worries at all if you don't.

Either way, looking forward to collaborating with you all!

Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below.
Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Thanks so much! I love big earrings :)

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

See you soon, and thank you for sending it.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
> Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
> Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

Thanks so much! I love big earrings :)

If you like, could you possibly sit in on the first part of our session, just so we can sort of talk for a bit and address any concerns you might have? I know it is late, and appreciate you being able to make the scheduling adjustment so we could make it work.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Let me know your thoughts!

Thank you Akhilah. It was nice to put a face with your name today. I really liked your hoop earrings btw.

I think Jackie and you will get along well. Jackie started going by Jackie instead of Jack about 2 months ago - I am not sure of all the reasons why...I also feel like Jackiee has been regressing behavior wise. anyway - letting you know I got the schedule. See you soon, and thank you for sending it.

Hey, John! Great seeing you all today :)

I just wanted to send a follow up email to the conversation we had at the end of Ja's session. I would officially meet with Ja on 12/8 at 7:30pm in the Frankfort Ave Office location. Here is a calendar of the remaining time for this year, and days we would have for next year. I don't anticipate anything will change, but I will keep you updated if I need to cancel for any reason (medical reasons, etc.).

I have made note of everything you mentioned in your last few emails, as well as will I be going over the notes from you and Dani's past sessions so I can get a little more familiar with Ja and how I will be able to better assist in our sessions.

Please let me know if you have any further questions, and we can definitely talk more next week!

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I hope you are well and JaF had a wonderful holiday last week. I wanted to reach out and state that Akhilah will be unable to attend in person tomorrow due to her other job needing her during JaF and my appointment time. I have asked Akhilah if she has 10 minutes to talk toward the end of the session, we could potentially meet via google meet. However, please inform JaF that Akhilah will not be present due to her other commitments. Please emphasize journaling, drawing, doing a puzzle, or playing a game to assist them if they become angered, or finding something to calm them down before communicating with you.

I wanted to reach out and state that Akhilah will be unable to attend in person tomorrow due to her other job needing her during JaF and my appointment time. I have asked Akhilah if she has 10 minutes to talk toward the end of the session, we could potentially meet via google meet. However, please inform JaF that Akhilah will not be present due to her other commitments. Please emphasize journaling, drawing, doing a puzzle, or playing a game to assist them if they become angered, or finding something to calm them down before communicating with you.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hey again, John!

I totally understand and hear your concerns. Here is a short video link to the Portland location and a few pics if you'd like to check it out! Everyone really seems to enjoy this space.
https://youtu.be/tKDQ07XC2Rk

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. Great question how you pronounce Ahkilah's name is (Ah-kee-lah), and I can also provide a line of contact for them once they meet JaF. For JaF contacting me after our time together, I will have a discussion with my supervisor as to how to have this conversation with JaF. Due to my time ending with JaF, I will no longer have contact information with them such as email, phone number, etc. Therefore, there will not be be a line accessible for me to be reached at. However, I can have this conversation with JaF in a different way to explore change, transition, and how we can overcome this challenge.

Subject: meeting new therapist for JaF

Hi John,

Next week during Jackie's appointment, I wanted to ask if you all would like to meet JaF's potential new therapist with LET after my transition on November 17th. We wanted the transition to be as smooth as possible for JaF and for them to get to know the therapist Akhilah before my leaving on December 2nd. Please let me know your thoughts.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hi John,

Great question related to numbness of the body. Often times the body can hold much of our energy as well as all things that encompass it including anxiety. I have found some resources that relate anxiety to numbness. Overstimulation increases anxiety tendencies and worsens somatic symptoms. Due to the experience demonstrated above, it is a potential cause. When they return, possibly try to have a chat with Jackie trying to get more information on how they felt, what was felt where, for how long did it stay, etc. I will provide the link below that provides some information on somatic symptoms related to overstimulation and anxiety. As well thinking back to our conversation related to dissociation, overstimulation can also cause dissociation (or a break for the brain to recharge).

Sensory Problems Caused By Anxiety (calmclinic.com)
Anxiety Numbness: Why It Happens and How to Deal (healthline.com)
Sensory Overload: Symptoms, Causes, Related Conditions, and More (healthline.com)

Recovery is a winding road with many pit stops along the way. However, taking in each step is part of the journey.

I now use the AHEM model in which provides roots, triggers, and thought processes when becoming angry, sad, or even positive emotions.
First before, ask what emotion they are feeling and provide a safe and comfortable setting.
1. Did the experience hurt them? Did it hurt them physically, emotionally, spiritually, etc.
2. Did you have expectations of what should happen? Just as did they wish for a different outcome but did not receive it.
3. Ask what needs were not met? Were they need of being comforted, being supported, not being alone? Go over what they needed in this situation.
4. What action was taken? Was it the best decision? If you would alter the outcome, what would it be?

Here is also some tools to use that can provide Jackie with some useful tools to take charge of those emotions and thoughts.

Some signs of overstimulation for Jackie include: running/pacing around, fleeting thoughts, fidgeting, etc.

Hi John,
I do not mind calling at all, but before calling, we have to receive authorization from you by signing a "release of information" document that allows us to contact the primary care physician and provide insight on Jackie's case and vice versa. I cc'd Theresa in this email because I do not have this document saved to my computer. Once we get it signed from you we should be good to go, and I can give a call right away!

Thanks Dani for putting this together.
We dont have a fax machine but we can put together a Release of Information document on Simple Practice and send it to you to esign.

Hopefully Lindsey will have some connections at 7 Counties and we can get him in asap.
Or go one of these other routes if you dont like the 7 counties option.

Below is the following psychiatrists that can provide a neuropsych evaluation.

Erica Cecil, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today

Secondly, due to JAF's increase in anger incidents the safety of all family members is a priority. If there is an incident that is increased intensity, JAF can not calm down, and the safety of both you and JAF is jeopardized, please do not hesitate to use any of these crisis lines:

502-589-8070 child's crisis line
walk in children crisis team management: 914 E Broadway 2nd Fl 40204

Lastly, in case of emergencies such as yourself being hurt in an incident, JAF hurting themselves. Please do not hesitate to call 911 to protect each individual

Hi John,

After our discussion today, and discussing the situation with Theresa, I wanted to provide resources of places that provide a neuropsychological evaluation that can be provided for Jack that accepts Medicaid. I believe this would be the best next step for JAF's to better help them grow in their therapeutic journey, including staying with the current safety plan, and have a better understanding of a diagnosis, potential medication, and counseling. Below is the following psychiatrists that can provide a neuropsych evaluation.

Erica Cecil, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Dr. Reisha Caudill, APRN , FNP-C, PMHNPBC, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Hagan Health, Psychiatrist, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Psychiatry - Norton Healthcare Louisville, Ky.

Secondly, due to JAF's increase in anger incidents the safety of all family members is a priority. If there is an incident that is increased intensity, JAF can not calm down, and the safety of both you and JAF is jeopardized, please do not hesitate to use any of these crisis lines:

502-589-8070 child's crisis line
walk in children crisis team management: 914 E Broadway 2nd Fl 40204
2225 W Broadway 40211

Lastly, in case of emergencies such as yourself being hurt in an incident, JAF hurting themselves. Please do not hesitate to call 911 to protect each individual

Please feel free to reach out anytime to either me or Theresa! We are here to support each of you on your therapeutic journeys.

Hi John,

Of course! I can go ahead and put Jack/Jackie on the waiting list so that they get priority over other inquiring clients. Secondly, I will be emailing art therapist in reference to seeing Jack/Jackie in late October to early November. Transition is quite difficult for all, but like the seasons it brings new life, change, and perspective for the upcoming shifts in our lives. Jack/Jackie has been an absolute pleasure to work with and I look forward the continued growth they will make in session and outside of session.

I am reaching out to all client families today to inform them that I am now in my midterm of internship, meaning that I have 9 weeks left at LET (meaning 9 individual sessions left or 4 or 5 bi weekly appointments). Due to all the upcoming holidays, breaks, and events I am reaching out to start creating a plan of transition for each client. I would like to know if you would like to continue services with LET after my leaving. Secondly, due to there not being any more interns, all clients will have to have to be seen by a licensed therapist and use insurance or private rates if wanting to stay at LET. They will be placed on a waiting list and have priority over new and incoming clients.I will also be contacting the therapist for availability in the end of October to November. Please let me know what you would like for Jack!

Hi John,

I found some great videos that explore the differences between gender identity, gender expression, and pronouns. I hope this can assist in Jack's journey with you and their gender identity and pronouns.

Hi John,

Thank you so much for the update and the email! I wanted to provide resources that may assist in helping with some the things that you wanted to implement at home such as their "mission statement", and potential to get a trophy.

For Jack's interests, there are plenty of free or cheap opportunities for them to enjoy either at home or even close to home! I have found alot of free or one time payment classes that offer coding and game creating that they would really enjoy. The resources are below:

Classes:
Coding and tech classes for kids | Outschool
Maker Lab Open Hours :: Events Calendar | Louisville Free Public Library (lfpl.org)
Register for a free coding class with BYJU'S FutureSchool (byjusfutureschool.com)
Apps for creation at home:
My Child Wants to Make a Video Game: Where to Start? (funtech.co.uk)

Implementation of homeschooling coding programs (unsure of pricing, however have used Khan academy and has free tutorials typically)
Coding for Homeschoolers + Free Project | Homeschool.com
However, for flying lessons i will have to look extensively for this type of resource!

For Jack's resource about receiving a trophy I would look further into the reason why there is a need for a trophy? Is it for achievement, is to be part of a team, is it to get recognition? Once this may be answered the only thing I can think of is sports teams in which the YMCA provides a lot of different programs to allow Jack to participate in. However, if I run across a resource for this I will send it your way.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

I want to get Jack involved in something aiming toward his dreams and goals - he wants to be a gaming creator and a person that does walkthroughs on YouTube and gets paid and gets sponsorships. I gave him a "My Personal Mission Statement" assignment last week as part of his homeschool. Anything we can do to encourage that direction. He also wants to get flight lessons - which I have not figured out yet of course...in terms of money...and not sure of other implications...

I also want him to be able to do something where he can have the potential to earn a trophy. He has voiced many times that he feels terrible because he has not ever won a trophy. I don't know where that comes from.

Also - for therapy - he keeps saying how much people have made fun of him for his bad handwriting. I don't think his handwriting is bad. He needs to practice some, but I don't think it is bad really at all.

He also refuses to read out loud quite often and won't say why.

So extra things to work on in therapy - in addition to - recognizing tones that are there and not there, knowing where the line is between imagination and reality, recognizing social cues, facial expressions, meanings thereof, etc...

Thanks Dani!!

I told Jackie I appreciated that that was possible - to voice that out loud - and that I was proud of Jackie for realizing and acknowledging this. I also told Jackie that it is hard on me to absorb that negative energy (because it really is - it did not used to be)...before I got really sick it was not a big issue...but now...it is...so it is something that we need to work on...

First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
> > For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
> > For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Linda,

I so wanted to go in today but I woke up feeling like I got slammed by a truck. I should have written to you first-thing, to let you know. I don't know what is wrong with me - but I think I might have some kind of infection - my body doesn't react right though. Could be just super exhausted also from everything going on with Jack - my worry from that alone would be enough...he is still struggling.

Update on DW Silks:
Missy got back to me late last week and said that in California, the state was split with one rep being North of Fresno (including Fresno) and the other rep taking everything South of Fresno. The only way for me to put this together was to look at all zip codes for all counties in California, and divide out by zip code. Most zip codes were able to be split using 92301 as an identifier but there were some misfits on both sides (some North in the South and some South in the North).

In Texas, I had to find a way to split things out also and I was still waiting for more information until earlier this morning - she said one rep had Northeast TX and one had Southwest TX - but that does not give me enough information to be able to split - I need to know where, by DW Silks' definition, that NE and SW start and end in TX.

One Rep takes care of the Caribbean, South America, and Central America - but the country codes are not being used in their database (In DW Silks' db) - so I asked her which countries were being sold into so I did not set up countries that were not relevant. She wrote back a little while ago this morning and asked if it would be helpful if we added 'Country' to their online customer account registration form. I think this absolutely would be beneficial with the way they are starting to look at their data. I haven't yet sent her a response.

One of the other weird things is that all of their orders are listed as on-hold in their database so that is something else I need to resolve. For now, in TX, I told her I set it up so that both reps will receive the whole state. In New Jersey, there is the same situation as is in Texas - don't know where the split between reps occurs. She is working on getting the information for TX and NJ.

I've attached a spreadsheet I put together that shows the items I've needed to work on in order to develop the reports.

I'll be looking at the reports again for them a bit after lunch as Missy provided some information on frequency / interval of reporting now so I will go in and update that.

I will be adding the Caribbean and Canada into the spreadsheet - I am not yet sure how to identify those regions entirely in the most expeditious way - but I will find one.

The way I have the reports set up - because I cannot look at 'completed' orders because they are not marking the orders as complete it would appear, is to pull a list of Year To Date orders. The order date is included on the order report. The way the accounts reports are set up for each rep is I pull a list of YTD accounts that have placed orders with only the account information - so new accounts will show up if a new account places an order.

She told me a little while ago that she wants the reports to be run weekly, and wants to be copied on them. I have her copied on them already and need to schedule the tasks for them to be run.

I have low iron again could be why I feel so tired. Most likely I am going to be receiving Copper infusions - not sure of frequency but I think once every 3 to 4 weeks - I know very little still right now. That doctor will be back in the office again tomorrow and I will have more information then. All I know is I keep having to gasp for air and it is very uncomfortable to feel that way.

I'll be heading to lunch at 1:45 - I did not realize how late it had gotten. I've been going through still trying to clean out iNode items every now and then. We need to update the server software at HostGator - but it fails because there is not enough room. I am going to contact them this afternoon to see about them temporarily increasing the storage until the update can be installed. Will keep you posted on that as well.

Subject: Please see notes per Jackie - 2022-09-30

1.) Jack is going by Jackie and using they/them only pronouns now.
2.) I talked to my parents about this change, please talk to yours about this change. Please try to get them to be as accepting as they are capable of being - it is vital to Jackie's mental health struggles.
3.) Dr. Mahajan thinks Jackie is struggling with long COVID symptoms because they seem to fit the pediatric definition of that - way more fatigue - onset of additional headaches - memory loss challenges [less common but she said she has seen this as part of long COVID symptoms]
4.) Jackie may have had Enterovirus-D68 this past weekend - not sure - they had some kind of allergic/respiratory virus with a really croupy cough. Jackie even in their sleep, was asking for their inhaler, and has continued to need to use it very often - may need a nebulizer treatment at some point. Doing 2 puffs of inhaler every 20 minutes for 1 hour is equivalent to 1 nebulizer treatment. Watch blue/grey around mouth area and listen to sounds of breathing.
5.) Genetic counselor suggested to me to get Jackie enrolled in the Undiagnosed Diseases Network program for some of the other physical health manifestations that are being experienced by Jackie. I have not had time to do this, and may not for some time, but may try to bring this more to the forefront.
6.) Going to move to online homeschool program of some kind - not one that is 100% Christian based...many are....trying to steer clear of JCPS too...looking for a special needs program.
7.) Jackie hurt me when they were angry - badly - to the point that I had to lock myself in my room, and then Jackie tried to break down the door, and it was not a safe experience. Please talk to Jackie about how to handle anger. Aggressiveness is escalating at times - and the reasons why are unclear.
8.) Continue to work on honesty and valuing the truth, and talking about how it is not okay to lie. Jackie did a much better job of telling the truth post safety incident of slamming me in the door on purpose.
9.) Please pay attention to dissociation episodes Jackie may have (he has them) - but we are supposed to be trying to get a better handle on how many they may have, and if there are lapses in memory.
10.) Work with Jackie on positive praise and reasons to exist, and how much Jackie is loved, and provide words of affirmation statements and compliments as often as possible to help with self image, self-esteem, ego building, etc...

I know that is a lot - at least I feel like it is. I thought it best to write all that out for us both.

Oh yes - and art therapist Dani Creamer suggested strongly that Jackie have another neuropsychiatric evaluation to see if any diagnoses are missing - especially due to onset of hallucinations and delusions, and suicidal ideation.

Also, a youth group has been suggested multiple times, and I think also, that Jackie would benefit from peer-to-peer support basically. Here is the link:

https://louisvilleyouthgroup.org/

There is a focus on LGBTQIA+ and 100% acceptance. I think it would be great for Jackie to experience the love of others that also feel that acceptance from people in their lives may not be as strong as it could be in regards to some relationships with extended family members.

Jackie needs a replacement phone cord. Is there any way that you can purchase one? We should each keep a charger at our houses, so that Jackie does not have a need to trek them back and forth.

Jackie wants new dresses and clothing. I would have taken them, but we ran out of time.

* I think that some of Jackie's meds may be interfering with clear thinking and making Jackie feel worse. I think Adderall may cause hallucinations in Jackie's case.

Please watch this short video:
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jhBJKV7LgLo

ALSO VERY IMPORTANT:
Basically it says that teens and younger children, can develop psychosis if/when taking amphetamine medications....it can cause hallucinations...delusions...can cause you to see things that are not there....can cause paranoia.....I think, strongly, that we need to have Jackie stop taking the Adderall and see what we have in terms of those psychosis symptoms afterward. I feel so strongly about that, that I am going to write to Jackie's doctor, and see what weaning schedule we may need to follow.

I will let you know what Dr. Mahajan and/or Dr. Rogers says when I write to them.

Hi John,

I am so thrilled that Jack is finding benefits in therapy, and I believe it would also be beneficial for them to start being seen weekly. I do have the available time of 12-1pm on Thursday every week available if that works for you! Let me know your thoughts or have any questions. Would you like to start having weekly sessions this week?

Sincerely,

This is from Jack's art therapist. I will ask if he can start attending there weekly. I am sure it won't be a problem, but I don't know if it will be at the same time slot.

These resources are going to be important to help Jack. We need to work on them together.

Hi John,

Provided below are some resources that assist with physical aggression, verbal aggression, and how to deescalate situations for your safety and Jack's safety. As well, because Jack absolutely loved emotional regulation, identification, and coping strategies games I will be attaching them below! These could help Jack be redirected into discussing emotions and feelings but in a playful and creative way! Let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

De-escalation strategies of aggression and physical outbursts:

Hi Megan.

Of course. I left you a message after you called last week, but I hadn't heard back from you. The only report that I am aware of is from 2017, and involved a charge of child abuse against my ex-wife, and was filed in Colorado. Is that still open?? After 7 years??

I didn't see your email until today.

So you know, my son is now my daughter (male to female transgender). She goes by Jackie and prefers the full name Jaqquelyn. We have not made the official legal name change yet, however, so legally, as of now, still, Jackie is Jack A. Fouts. So when you talk to her, please refer to her as Jackie and use she/her pronouns.

Subject: Some of other things....

Thought of these after you had left, but still relevant.

In 2022, Jackie's then PCP, Dr. Mahajan, at Norton, had told us that Jackie was exhibiting symptoms of Long Covid, and Jackie was indeed....especially with an exacerbation of pain, exacerbation of headaches, newer onset worse short term memory (which Dr. Mahajan had said she'd seen in a number of children), and extreme fatigue. She had us go to a Cardiologist, to Physical Rehabilitation Medicine, and Pulmonology for Jackie. Jackie already has established care at a Family Allergy and Asthma practice. Jackie already sees a Neurologist - Dr. Rogers at Norton, Gastroenterologist - Dr. Stocker or NP Lindsay McElmurray at U of L Motility Department....Jackie was first diagnosed with Gastroparesis around the age of 3 or 4 I think...that was a long time ago...the diagnosis was done at Cincinnati Children's Hospital using the gold standard test....the nuclear imaging looking for delayed gastric emptying....Jackie has delayed gastric emptying in phases 2 and 4 of digestion according to that test.....I have had Jackie in therapy since Jackie was a small child because I always knew something was not the same as other children....

Jackie was very sensitive, and still is, to light at times...to sound....sensory inputs....Jackie saw Dr. Tonya Stockhammer (Psychologist at StrongMinds) when Jackie was 5 or 6....prior to that...Jackie saw Dr. Lara West in Corydon....Dr. Stockhammer advised us to see Dr. Judith Axelrod at SquareOne MD (one of the best physicians / developmental pediatricians in the region)....Dr. Axelrod confirmed ADHD when Jackie was 6 I believe...Jackie was in therapy at school that I had arranged in 2019 or 2020. I had asked also, if Jackie could be seen by an in-school therapist...and...by an out of school therapist...because Jackie was struggling with some things (and weren't we all....it was the time of the great pandemic of COVID)...which was not so great a time. I was able to get that set up through Seven Counties...so Jackie was seeing Ms. Sanchez at school...and was seeing Lindsey Smith outside of school, so was having therapy sessions 2 times per week...this went on into 2022...at which time, Jackie began being homeschooled - on 2/22/2022 (easy date to remember at least)... Jackie had been having issues with migraines, cluster headaches, and cyclical vomiting syndrome in addition to her anxiety and depression. She was also struggling with pain issues and invisible disability issues....Jackie was seeing Lindsey Smith well into 2022 (I believe through the end of the year)...Jackie had also been enrolled in Art Therapy as of then. Jack was in art therapy through Louisville Expressive Therapies from around August 2022 through February 2023.

At L.E.T., Jackie initially saw Theresa Adamchik, later Dani Creamer (intern), and after that saw Akilah Cherry. Jackie enjoyed art therapy, but Akhilah said she was not able to continue seeing Jackie due to not feeling comfortable dealing with transgender issues which she had not been trained on if I remember correctly - or maybe was just not comfortable tackling transgenderism with everything else.

So Lindsey Smith had left Seven Counties, and Akilah had not felt comfortable with gender affirming therapy, nor was she able to provide what was needed for Jackie to begin receiving appropriate transgender care -- we needed a specific letter from a gender-affirming therapy group to be able to get Jackie into the P.A.G.E. clinic at the NOVAK Center downtown (specialized in Endocrinology, etc....)...oh...at the end of 2022 and in the Summer 2022...and maybe even somewhat earlier in the year, I had also finally been able to get Jackie into ABA therapy...which was recommended for Jackie since Jackie was younger...

When Jackie was younger...it was not affordable at $200 an hour with a recommended 20 to 40 hours per week....that would have been $4000 to $8000 per week out of pocket or $16000 to $32000 per month out of pocket...and was not a feasible solution in the past...at least not for any family I have ever known. Finally, in 2022 when I was able to receive Medicaid, and Jackie was also, ABA therapy was a covered benefit. In early 2022, I had met with the coordinator for the ABA company...and we had been on the waiting list for a long time....6 months to a year....still...even after meeting with the coordinator...it took months before we were assigned an ABA therapist.....so in 2022...Jackie was seeing an art therapist, a regular psychotherapist at 7 Counties, and an ABA Therapist....I think in the 3rd quarter of 2023 is when the ABA therapist left the company she'd been with, so we were again left adrift trying to find services.

When I spoke to the psychiatry department through Norton, they asked about medications, service providers (physicians), therapists, and stated there was no need for Jackie to have any additional psychiatric help...and they strongly complimented me on my parenting and doing everything possible to take the best care of Jackie that was possible.

In 2023....Lindsey, the Seven Counties therapist left to go elsewhere...and the art therapist had stopped seeing Jackie....we were struggling to find appropriate gender-affirming care for Jackie to get the needed letter for the PAGE clinic...we were referred to a therapy agency that operates solely via telehealth...and after being shuffled through therapists...that 'they' assigned Jackie to....they decided to not see Jackie...it was a big let down....

Darcie Taggart began seeing Jackie shortly after that. From my calendar, it looks like Jackie began seeing Darcie around August of 2023....Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation that I had done in 2022 in the middle of the year also came back showing Jackie as having Autism Spectrum Disorder Level 2 and ADHD. It was done by Dr. David Charles at Meridian Behavioral Health.

In late 2022....we had whole genome sequencing done with the results coming back in early 2023 showing that Jackie had one copy of a pathogenic gene, and I had 2 copies of it....the defective gene shows both of us have a primary immune deficiency disorder or inborn error of immunity. That pathogenicity can lead to some of the things Jackie was...and...is....experiencing health-wise.

I'd also applied for Jackie to receive SSI due to all of the mental and physical health issues that she was experiencing, and she was found disabled as of May 2023....now....however...she is listed through SSA as just falling under the umbrella of the disability benefit that I am receiving due to her being the child of a disabled worker...which means a small but slightly larger amount than if she were only collecting SSI. Jackie is on the waiting list, also, for the Michelle P. Waiver, but the list is several years long, so I don't know if she will even be able to access waiver services.

Jackie continues to see Darcie and Darcie has been really a good fit for Jackie.

Please let me know once you have officially closed the case, and please provide documentation to me once that has occurred. I think you said you would, but I want to make sure I ask for that for my records, please.

> Great question related to numbness of the body. Often times the body can hold much of our energy as well as all things that encompass it including anxiety. I have found some resources that relate anxiety to numbness. Overstimulation increases anxiety tendencies and worsens somatic symptoms. Due to the experience demonstrated above, it is a potential cause. When they return, possibly try to have a chat with Jackie trying to get more information on how they felt, what was felt where, for how long did it stay, etc. I will provide the link below that provides some information on somatic symptoms related to overstimulation and anxiety. As well thinking back to our conversation related to dissociation, overstimulation can also cause dissociation (or a break for the brain to recharge).

Thank you Dani! Everything you send is very helpful. We had a bit of a scare this afternoon...I had to go to an orthodontic appt to pick up my retainer after we left your place....we ate lunch at home first...they had to remake the retainer while we were there...so I went over Jackie's math test...they did great on it! 81/96 before bonus and with bonus questions 106/96! I was trying to explain a few of the small mistakes that were made, to Jackie, in the car while we waited the 20 minutes on the retainer remake. Jackie grew very upset and started crying, and then suddenly lost all feeling from the waist down, and lost proprioception waist down...slowly...it has begun to come back...is this anxiety related maybe? Jackie just left with their mom. I am hopeful that recovery continues.

Hi John,

I wanted to send the model that I use, but also some helpful things to assist in discussing situations with Jackie regarding anger and providing a different perspective for them to assist in their problem-solving and communication. I will also be attaching some things about overstimulation and assisting Jackie in de-escalating.

I now use the AHEM model in which provides roots, triggers, and thought processes when becoming angry, sad, or even positive emotions.
First before, ask what emotion they are feeling and provide a safe and comfortable setting.
1. Did the experience hurt them? Did it hurt them physically, emotionally, spiritually, etc.
2. Did you have expectations of what should happen? Just as did they wish for a different outcome but did not receive it.
3. Ask what needs were not met? Were they need of being comforted, being supported, not being alone? Go over what they needed in this situation.
4. What action was taken? Was it the best decision? If you would alter the outcome, what would it be?

Here is also some tools to use that can provide Jackie with some useful tools to take charge of those emotions and thoughts.
Anger Management - The A-B-C-D Model (tutorialspoint.com)
What to do When your Child is Overstimulated • Alverson Pediatric Therapy
How to Cope With Your Child's Sensory Overload (verywellfamily.com)
Autism: Managing Over-stimulation and Stress (mycanopy.org)
6 Ways in Which Children with Autism Handle Overstimulation - Littlegate Publishing

Some signs of overstimulation for Jackie include: running/pacing around, fleeting thoughts, fidgeting, etc.

I do not mind writing more letters but I am a bit covered up right now with hundreds of pages of things to do administratively, so it might be a little while before I can get to that. Shouldn't Medicaid be covering the services at this point? (as of July 1)? If I need to write letters I will try to do so asap - just let me know so I can try to find the time and the energy to get them done. Jackie's well-being is my overall number 1 priority!

I just wanted to share this with you all, but I do ask that you keep it confidential. If my ex-wife knew I was sending this to you, she would become very hateful toward me (even more than she already is at times), and probably take out her anger on Jackie....still...since this is part of Jackie's history....I feel it important that you all know about it...

I was gone for maybe 2 hours tops...looking for a place to live in CO....I came home to my ex-wife saying she wanted to die.....and Jack was crying and very upset....I told my ex-wife I did not want anything to happen to her, but that I needed to take care of Jack first.....I had to console Jack for a long time back then before he would tell me what happened....

My ex-wife, of course, was very angry that I did not take care of her, instead of Jack....that is a whole other thing that is still upsetting to me...

Anyway - I don't know how to tell if the information still shows up for Lindsay (ex-wife) in the TRAILS system...

Please keep all of this, of course, confidential...I am only sharing it because I believe it may be relevant to Jackie's ongoing mental health concerns.

Also, side note, Jackie told me a few times this week so far, that Jackie believes that Jackie has 'never had a positive relationship with me, since the day Jackie was born'. It actually really hurts me to hear Jackie say that, but I'd like to understand where it is coming from. I could not get Jackie to elaborate on that statement at all...it may be something that Jackie can talk about at therapy as well.

I received the completed form. Thank you!

I would be happy to try for staffing at school. Please remind me what school she will be attending. If you would like to proceed with school, you'll need to ask the school if they will allow a therapist in, and if so, how much?

Her insurance will allow for 20 hours per week. We don't have to utilize all 20; however, the more hours, the better it would be to find a staff.

I am super glad that you are able to help out with the information -- there was nothing attached so I don't have anything I can sign for you yet. Please send when possible.

As far as the hours go...I think it is absolutely wonderful that Jackie is going back to the school system (it was no longer working regarding homeschooling with Jackie showing so much resentment toward me for homeschooling on mom's weeks -- although that was her choice to have Jackie be with me during the day on her weeks - but Jackie resented me strongly for it..... that all being said....we are going to be back to a more equal and even schedule (which will be really good for Jackie/Jaqquelyn). I am trying to get used to using Jaqquelyn, but I am not used to it yet.

School hours are 8:40 to 3:20....so...with commute just say 8 to 4....I don't know if there would be a way to do some hours at school. I am trying to get school therapy set up presently too (with 7 county services - to maintain the case worker). The therapy will probably be 1 hour per week at school. I think Jackie is going to need more support than that so it would be great to have some ABA at school...and maybe on Mondays (because transitioning from the weekend to the school week can be hard...and because especially on my weeks...I have IVIG on Mondays...)....

Please let me know your thoughts. I know nothing about Jackie's mom's weeks other than she works from home on Tue, Wed, and Friday now...

I don't want to discharge - let's aim for the 10 hours per week. I understand it is a lot. I thought we had finally started getting somewhere when Susan was regularly coming over here - now I feel like that progress has been lost.

Can you please send a note to Stacy Polk at 7 County Services stating that we have been receiving services from your organization during the time Susan came here, and that we have been awaiting a therapist for ABA since then?

Her email address is: spolk@sevencounties.org

I appreciate you. John

Well, Jaqquelyn (please note spelling) is going to The Phoenix School starting in August - for 7th grade - that will be 8:20 am to 2:20 pm.... We are going to have to leave where I live by like 7:40 am at the latest to get there on time....and the earliest we will be back is 3:00 pm. School starts, I think, on August 12th. I have IVIG on Mondays and am out of commission by the afternoon on most days after an 8 hour long infusion -- sometimes I can barely make it to the grocery store or something if we need food desperately on a Monday. Fridays are transitional days so I'd like to avoid those because they are already so hard for Jackie. 10 to 15 hours seems like too much - we need something in between 0 and that much...

Lindsay, Jaqquelyn's mom, just got a new apartment right next to the Phoenix School - I think that will help Jackie out a lot.

Hi -

Yes, I can but will need a release of information on file. I can send this to you to electronically sign in a moment.

If 10 hours per week will work, can you please let me know the desired schedule for those hours (days, times, and location).

If we can begin with a few parent training hours within the month, please let me know if you are open to that and I will see if I have an available BCBA to do that with you.

Thank you!

I don't want to discharge - let's aim for the 10 hours per week. I understand it is a lot. I thought we had finally started getting somewhere when Susan was regularly coming over here - now I feel like that progress has been lost.

Can you please send a note to Stacy Polk at 7 County Services stating that we have been receiving services from your organization during the time Susan came here, and that we have been awaiting a therapist for ABA since then?

Her email address is: spolk@sevencounties.org

I appreciate you. John

Well, Jaqquelyn (please note spelling) is going to The Phoenix School starting in August - for 7th grade - that will be 8:20 am to 2:20 pm.... We are going to have to leave where I live by like 7:40 am at the latest to get there on time....and the earliest we will be back is 3:00 pm. School starts, I think, on August 12th. I have IVIG on Mondays and am out of commission by the afternoon on most days after an 8 hour long infusion -- sometimes I can barely make it to the grocery store or something if we need food desperately on a Monday. Fridays are transitional days so I'd like to avoid those because they are already so hard for Jackie. 10 to 15 hours seems like too much - we need something in between 0 and that much...

Lindsay, Jaqquelyn's mom, just got a new apartment right next to the Phoenix School - I think that will help Jackie out a lot.

I have art therapy (Telehealth) on Tuesdays from home. If she wanted to come for a couple of hours on Tuesday the 13th - like from 12:00 to 2:00 that would be great for Jackie (who is now going by the full name Jaqquelyn). She is growing into herself - you know?

John

p.s. Sorry about the delay - I have a pretty severe UTI at the moment and am having a hard time doing anything really.

I have art therapy (Telehealth) on Tuesdays from home. If she wanted to come for a couple of hours on Tuesday the 13th - like from 12:00 to 2:00 that would be great for Jackie (who is now going by the full name Jaqquelyn). She is growing into herself - you know?

p.s. Sorry about the delay - I have a pretty severe UTI at the moment and am having a hard time doing anything really.

They basically said it wasn't their primary focus...and told us we would have to go see a different therapy place - which SUCKS - because Jackie has had good luck and made progress at the current therapy place, but if we want to get the letter (which we must have) to go to the endocrinology clinic (even to just talk to counselors there), we have to change. Thanks for the idea of going the psychiatry route too.

Novak Center at Norton sent this template for providers to use to write a letter on Jackie's behalf. Can you write one for us?

I can see why they would recommend that. Makes sense!

They basically said it wasn't their primary focus...and told us we would have to go see a different therapy place - which SUCKS - because Jackie has had good luck and made progress at the current therapy place, but if we want to get the letter (which we must have) to go to the endocrinology clinic (even to just talk to counselors there), we have to change. Thanks for the idea of going the psychiatry route too.

Novak Center at Norton sent this template for providers to use to write a letter on Jackie's behalf. Can you write one for us?

Dr. Reynolds - thanks for following up. I promise I have not forgotten about getting back to you. I am really continuing to struggle a great deal with my health....with life in general....with my ex-wife's on-going mental health hospital inpatient stays and how they affect Jackie etc...

I would like to know if we could start off by aiming for 1:00 to 5:00 on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. We need to ease into it some for Jackie. Can we please start with this - 8 hours per week?

Thursdays are pretty full for Jackie already with Susan coming, and with Art Therapy in the evenings.

I see. Thanks for bearing with me as I gain further understanding of the process. It is complicated because we are living at my parents' house, and not at my own home or place of residence. It complicates things in many ways.

May I ask you, please, to reach out to me early next week? I recently learned I have a spinal tumor in a bone of my vertebrae, and I am scheduled to see an Oncologist this Thursday, and my mind is somewhat preoccupied at the moment. Could I ask you, please, to reach out to me again early next week? I am not trying to put you off - I have a lot on my mind at the moment.

I see. Thanks for bearing with me as I gain further understanding of the process. It is complicated because we are living at my parents' house, and not at my own home or place of residence. It complicates things in many ways.

May I ask you, please, to reach out to me early next week? I recently learned I have a spinal tumor in a bone of my vertebrae, and I am scheduled to see an Oncologist this Thursday, and my mind is somewhat preoccupied at the moment. Could I ask you, please, to reach out to me again early next week? I am not trying to put you off - I have a lot on my mind at the moment.

What is an RBT and how does this impact the schedule with Susan? We are going to need to adjust the time some probably. Please answer when possible. Thank you.

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. It would be good for me of course to meet Jackie and talk with you both. Perhaps we can speak first, just you and I. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. It would be good for me of course to meet Jackie and talk with you both. Perhaps we can speak first, just you and I. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi John,
Good morning. Great. Let's say 1:30. The visit will be about 2 hours max. Long enough to meet and discuss your concerns and to meet Jackie.

Look forward to meeting you.

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

I am Susan Mcconnell the BCBA assigned to Jackie. Would you be available next week on Tuesday? I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. Dr. Reynolds,

She had not contacted me via telephone, and the only correspondence I had received from her was an email she sent last night at 8:14 p.m. I had not yet had a chance to respond to the email due to having a TMS therapy appointment this morning, trying to get in touch with a case manager, and preparing for my bankruptcy meeting, which just ended. As soon as the bankruptcy meeting ended, I wrote to her, and copied you. I don't know if she may have been calling the wrong number? She understands that me and Jackie's mother are divorced doesn't she? The only thing I can think is that she was only trying to reach out to Jackie's mom??

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

I was in the middle of moving, so I was not yet able to reach out to you, but now the move is finalized (although - hopefully it will be a temporary move).

Jackie and I are now living at:

184 Cedarview Dr.
Shepherdsville, KY 40165

I am living in the basement of my parents' home with Jackie.

Jackie is still with her mother every other week at:

13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302
Louisville, KY 40243

Jackie still does homeschool during all weeks, and on Jackie's mother's weeks, does homeschool now at 184 Cedarview Dr. Shepherdsville, KY 40165 (the same address I gave you above that we have moved to).

If you should have any questions, please let me know. Thank you for the status update. It is appreciated.

If it is possible for you to send me/us the therapy goals for Jackie so I can view them prior to meeting, I would like to do so. I always like to have time to think about things and formulate questions if I have any based on the information at hand. It is just how I am built.

Thanks Dr. Reynolds.

Oh - our holiday went okay - but it was bittersweet....moving during the holiday season is not easy. Hope yours was good also.

John

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

I was in the middle of moving, so I was not yet able to reach out to you, but now the move is finalized (although - hopefully it will be a temporary move).

Jackie and I are now living at:

184 Cedarview Dr.
Shepherdsville, KY 40165

I am living in the basement of my parents' home with Jackie.

Jackie is still with her mother every other week at:

Louisville, KY 40243

Jackie still does homeschool during all weeks, and on Jackie's mother's weeks, does homeschool now at 184 Cedarview Dr. Shepherdsville, KY 40165 (the same address I gave you above that we have moved to).

If you should have any questions, please let me know. Thank you for the status update. It is appreciated.

If it is possible for you to send me/us the therapy goals for Jackie so I can view them prior to meeting, I would like to do so. I always like to have time to think about things and formulate questions if I have any based on the information at hand. It is just how I am built.

Thanks Dr. Reynolds.

Oh - our holiday went okay - but it was bittersweet....moving during the holiday season is not easy. Hope yours was good also.

John

Hello Mr. Fouts –

I hope your holiday was great! Susan (BCBA) will be reaching out to you in January to schedule her first appt with you all. She is the BCBA, and complete parent training and composition of Jackie's initial treatment goals based on the assessment that you completed when I visited.

I am excited to get things started for your family and still working hard to locate a therapist.

Are you all still at the same address that I visited?

Thank you!

Dr. Reynolds,

No changes as of yet, however, I would suggest that we did not begin until after the New Year holiday - I realize it is unlikely you would have one prior to then anyway.

I apologize in the delay in getting back to you - it has been a very challenging time for me as the chronic fatigue syndrome issues I deal with are continuing to become more exacerbated for whatever reason - with no known trigger - it is very difficult as I have been pretty much bed-bound for a couple of years in the past - I do not want to have that life again - but when your health is slipping - and nobody knows how to help - it is very challenging.

I am going to be following up with Dr. David Charles at Meridian Behavioral Health (who did Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation previously), and seeing if they may have any options. I will keep you posted - I do not think they offer ABA - but other services may be able to fulfill the current gap/need that exists in Jackie's healthcare.

Unless anything changes though, the current plan, is to continue waiting on your group, to provide an ABA therapist for Jackie. Thank you so much for checking in.

John

Hi Lindsay -

It is with great regret that I must inform you that Dataya has had a change in her schedule. She recently notified me that Jackie's treatment schedule no longer works with her schedule. I did offer alternate options; however, she was not able to accommodate.

Therefore, she will not start, and I am again looking for therapist.

Susan – the BCBA is still slated to start and can offer parent training when she begins.

I am sorry for the inconvenience, and I will keep you posted.

Dr. Reynolds,

Hi. Hope you are doing well.

I wanted to follow up with you to get the ABA therapist's contact information please.

Also - during the week of Thanksgiving - I am certain that we will not be meeting with him/her on Thanksgiving Day itself. What about the Wednesday of Thanksgiving week? Trying to figure out family meal schedule too - I am sure you understand.

Please let me know when you can.

Have a good day and a great week.

Dr. Reynolds,

Hi. Hope you are doing well.

I wanted to follow up with you to get the ABA therapist's contact information please.

Also - during the week of Thanksgiving - I am certain that we will not be meeting with him/her on Thanksgiving Day itself. What about the Wednesday of Thanksgiving week? Trying to figure out family meal schedule too - I am sure you understand.

Please let me know when you can.

Have a good day and a great week.

Wonderful.

The therapists name is Dataya. I will be providing her your phone number so that she may call/text you if any delay or issue may arise.

The Behavior Analyst assigned to Jackie is Susan. You will meet her at a later date 😊 Susan will supervise treatment programming and goals.

What is the best number to reach you, and do you accept text messages?

Dr. Reynolds,

I have reached out to Jack's mother with email and with text messages, but I have not heard anything from her. Wondered if you had heard on your end?

I'm kind of worried about her - she suffers from bipolar and depression.

Hi Lindsay –

We have a therapist lined up for Jackie. Are you willing to participate in ABA therapy at your home when Jackie is there? I have an urgent need to determine a schedule for services during for the weeks that Jackie is with you….. if you will not be declining that Jackie participate while in your care.

The therapist will be starting during a week when Jackie is at your home.

Please let me know as soon as possible.

Hi -
No, this would be his weekly scheduled therapy time.

If this time does not work, what is a weekly schedule time that would work for your home?

M - F 330p-630p

If this does not work it would be very helpful if you could send me a schedule that may work for your home.

Thank you!

Hello –

I hope you both are well this week!

A few things:

1. I have located a therapist for Jackie. She has availability in the evening. That is great news. She is slated to start 11.16.22.
    a. I think this may be a week when Jackie is at mom's home?
2. I do not have a schedule for Lindsay's home. I have gotten one reply from her and responded back with clarification for her.
3. In looking at the calendar provided to me I am proposing the following schedule for your home for a total of 10.5 hours per week.
    a. M. = None per your request.
    b. T. = 330pm to 700p (3.5)
    c. W. = 330p – 700p (3.5)
    d. Th. = 330p – 700p (3.5)
    e. F = None – to allow for transition to mom's home.

*Note – Once the schedule starts there is ability to add time to Mondays, Fridays, or weekends if possible. For now, we can see how the scheduling and therapy goes.

Please let me know if you have any objections to this schedule or if you can agree to this schedule. This would be what I communicate to the therapist.

Thank you!

Hi Dr. Reynolds (again)...

Thanks for your patience. I completely understand what you are saying about the number of hours required for therapy. When you see our schedule, it might make more sense as to why I am having trouble finding how to get it to fit in, but I think we will be able to accommodate 12 hours....we need to start there at the lower end in order to find time and see if there is a good benefit. I know we need to do something differently...I feel like I am losing my child to mental issues and mental illness and I need help with things.

When Lindsay picked up Jackie this afternoon, just a few minutes ago, I told her you had been trying to reach her to schedule time during her weeks.

I have attached the schedule for Jackie and myself for the weeks through March 1.

Keep in mind:

* The time-slots for speech therapy and OT have not been yet confirmed.

* I need to schedule an appointment and pulmonary testing for Jackie - TBD

* I need to schedule an appointment to have Jackie's eyes checked out (eye exam), and to see what might be causing the eye issues Jackie is experiencing.

* I am working on getting a prescriber in place that is a specialist - I have reached out to Meridian Health who did Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation

* I am trying to get Jackie scheduled to see the P.A.G.E. Clinic. They specialize in gender dysphoria. I may be able to have Meridian Health take over this piece too, however, as they are a gender affirming practice.

* Jackie has occasional dermatology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* Jackie has occasional neurology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* I am working on finding a group setting or a way to have Jackie in some way interact with children Jackie's own age to learn more social and emotional soft skills and to learn how to better read non-verbal behavior and social cues

* I don't know what to do, but Jackie's anger has spiraled out of control

* Jackie is dealing with Long Covid symptoms - the long covid clinic recommended appointments have largely not been set up yet

* I, John, have an endovenous laser ablation surgery that I need to schedule for my left leg greater saphenous vein to be ablated - recovery was harder than I thought it would be when I had to do this for my right leg earlier this year

* I am trying to get TMS therapy for myself, but having trouble finding a way to get it as it is a commitment that requires every day presence for around a month

Please see the attached calendar, and please let me know if you have any questions/comments/suggestions about what you recommend in terms of timing.

Thank you Dr. Reynolds! I'm so sorry that there are so many complicating factors with our situation. On top of everything else, I will likely be filing Chapter 7 Bankruptcy in the very near future ... unless I can find some other way ...

Dr. Reynolds,

We will make at least 12 hours work. Unfortunately, I cannot control the schedules of other providers involved in care, or my life would be a lot easier. When I am back at my laptop, I can send you each week's schedule that is already scheduled through the next 8 weeks to 12 weeks or something, and we can go from there. Will that work?

Hi –

Thank you for the information. 25 hours per week of ABA therapy is typical for this type of therapy. Usually, ABA therapy is the 'main' therapy that is received. For Jackie, that is not the case – so that makes scheduling and servicing challenging. 25 hours is the recommended treatment hours; however, we understand family schedules. Unfortunately, given the behaviors and skill deficits described during the assessment, six to eight hours will not be sufficient for this type of therapy.

At minimum, ten to twelve hours per week would need to be met to move forward with the service. In addition, it will be extremely difficult to staff a case with anything less than ten hours.

If you can meet the minimum hour requirement, I will need you to send me a schedule that will work you and Jackie for ABA therapy. If you can be direct with the schedule, it would be very helpful (e.g., Monday 1:00p – 430p, Tues 330p – 630p, Wed …..)

If your family cannot meet the minimum hour requirement, SpringHealth unfortunately will not be able to offer ABA therapy.

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

Monday on my weeks, yes correct - that I cannot be trying to do anything because I have IVIG all day. In case you are not aware of what that procedure is, or so you can have a more full understanding...I have a home health nurse that comes and administers IgG intravenously over a period of 6 to 8 hours. I have to be dosed up on Tylenol and on Benadryl to hopefully avoid side effects and I have to have things like BP and heart rate checked every 30 minutes (and at the start of infusion every 15 minutes). This is a weekly and likely life-long treatment...

Also - I receive Copper infusion treatments and those are done at outpatient cancer centers. Those are done every 60 days and take about 6 hours in total.

On Tuesdays, yes it is possible to arrive during the school day - I would prefer a bit earlier in the day actually if possible...however...I have a standing art therapy appointment from 1pm to 2pm on every Tuesday.

25 hours per week seems like it is A LOT of therapy....I mention this because if you add in the other appointments alone, that occupies far too much schedule time to be able to do school and pre-existing obligations - art therapy for Jackie, talk therapy for Jackie, my appointments, time that is not time spent in a therapy session or doing school...etc....so we are not going to meet 25 hours per week.

Ideally, I'd like it if we could have the therapy be over by 5pm. On Thursdays, Jackie has art therapy at 12 to 1 pm, and we have various other appointments on a weekly basis - same is true for every day of the week. If therapist wants to come earlier, that is fine. Jackie is very defiant when it comes to home school and I don't know how to handle that....consequences are not effective...nor is praise....

Fridays are transition days and are typically more open than other days because Jackie has trouble with the transitions generally speaking. We can try to find availability....I think 6 to 8 hours per week is pushing it with all the other appointments we have...

Special Note: Jackie is suffering from consequences of Long-Covid. Memory problems....that are on top of pre-existing autism and adhd related memory problems...shortness of breath... extreme fatigue... random other symptoms...

We saw the Long Covid Clinic at Norton/Novak Center here in Louisville this week. The NP recommended that Jackie be seen by Cardiology, by a Pulmonologist to do pulmonary function testing, and she advised that Jackie should be enrolled in the Pediatric Rehabilitation Program. She said the children are being treated as if they had a concussion or other traumatic brain injury. She said at the start, that we would need to meet with them at least once per week. I don't know when these appointments are going to be yet because we have so many other appointments. Additionally, she said that Jackie needs to focus on rest right now and emphasized that Jackie should not be spending too much time on school - she said the rehabilitation people would basically advise on how much time Jackie could or should spend each week on school and other brain-related activities. I am not sure how ABA therapy folds into that mix as I have somewhat of a vague understanding of the therapy itself.

If this info is not helpful enough, we can schedule a call to talk if that will work better. What are your thoughts?

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

Hi Dr. Reynolds (again)…

Thanks for your patience. I completely understand what you are saying about the number of hours required for therapy. When you see our schedule, it might make more sense as to why I am having trouble finding how to get it to fit in, but I think we will be able to accommodate 12 hours….we need to start there at the lower end in order to find time and see if there is a good benefit. I know we need to do something differently...I feel like I am losing my child to mental issues and mental illness and I need help with things.

When Lindsay picked up Jackie this afternoon, just a few minutes ago, I told her you had been trying to reach her to schedule time during her weeks.

I have attached the schedule for Jackie and myself for the weeks through March 1.

Keep in mind:

* The time-slots for speech therapy and OT have not been yet confirmed.

* I need to schedule an appointment and pulmonary testing for Jackie - TBD

* I need to schedule an appointment to have Jackie's eyes checked out (eye exam), and to see what might be causing the eye issues Jackie is experiencing.

* I am working on getting a prescriber in place that is a specialist - I have reached out to Meridian Health who did Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation

* I am trying to get Jackie scheduled to see the P.A.G.E. Clinic. They specialize in gender dysphoria. I may be able to have Meridian Health take over this piece too, however, as they are a gender affirming practice.

* Jackie has occasional dermatology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* Jackie has occasional neurology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* I am working on finding a group setting or a way to have Jackie in some way interact with children Jackie's own age to learn more social and emotional soft skills and to learn how to better read non-verbal behavior and social cues

* I don't know what to do, but Jackie's anger has spiraled out of control

* Jackie is dealing with Long Covid symptoms - the long covid clinic recommended appointments have largely not been set up yet

* I, John, have an endovenous laser ablation surgery that I need to schedule for my left leg greater saphenous vein to be ablated - recovery was harder than I thought it would be when I had to do this for my right leg earlier this year

* I am trying to get TMS therapy for myself, but having trouble finding a way to get it as it is a commitment that requires every day presence for around a month

Please see the attached calendar, and please let me know if you have any questions/comments/suggestions about what you recommend in terms of timing.

Thank you Dr. Reynolds! I'm so sorry that there are so many complicating factors with our situation. On top of everything else, I will likely be filing Chapter 7 Bankruptcy in the very near future ... unless I can find some other way ...

Dr. Reynolds,

We will make at least 12 hours work. Unfortunately, I cannot control the schedules of other providers involved in care, or my life would be a lot easier. When I am back at my laptop, I can send you each week's schedule that is already scheduled through the next 8 weeks to 12 weeks or something, and we can go from there. Will that work?

Hi –

Thank you for the information. 25 hours per week of ABA therapy is typical for this type of therapy. Usually, ABA therapy is the 'main' therapy that is received. For Jackie, that is not the case – so that makes scheduling and servicing challenging. 25 hours is the recommended treatment hours; however, we understand family schedules. Unfortunately, given the behaviors and skill deficits described during the assessment, six to eight hours will not be sufficient for this type of therapy.

At minimum, ten to twelve hours per week would need to be met to move forward with the service. In addition, it will be extremely difficult to staff a case with anything less than ten hours.

If you can meet the minimum hour requirement, I will need you to send me a schedule that will work you and Jackie for ABA therapy. If you can be direct with the schedule, it would be very helpful (e.g., Monday 1:00p – 430p, Tues 330p – 630p, Wed …..)

If your family cannot meet the minimum hour requirement, SpringHealth unfortunately will not be able to offer ABA therapy.

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

Monday on my weeks, yes correct - that I cannot be trying to do anything because I have IVIG all day. In case you are not aware of what that procedure is, or so you can have a more full understanding...I have a home health nurse that comes and administers IgG intravenously over a period of 6 to 8 hours. I have to be dosed up on Tylenol and on Benadryl to hopefully avoid side effects and I have to have things like BP and heart rate checked every 30 minutes (and at the start of infusion every 15 minutes). This is a weekly and likely life-long treatment...

Also - I receive Copper infusion treatments and those are done at outpatient cancer centers. Those are done every 60 days and take about 6 hours in total.

On Tuesdays, yes it is possible to arrive during the school day - I would prefer a bit earlier in the day actually if possible...however...I have a standing art therapy appointment from 1pm to 2pm on every Tuesday.

25 hours per week seems like it is A LOT of therapy....I mention this because if you add in the other appointments alone, that occupies far too much schedule time to be able to do school and pre-existing obligations - art therapy for Jackie, talk therapy for Jackie, my appointments, time that is not time spent in a therapy session or doing school...etc....so we are not going to meet 25 hours per week.

Ideally, I'd like it if we could have the therapy be over by 5pm. On Thursdays, Jackie has art therapy at 12 to 1 pm, and we have various other appointments on a weekly basis - same is true for every day of the week. If therapist wants to come earlier, that is fine. Jackie is very defiant when it comes to home school and I don't know how to handle that....consequences are not effective...nor is praise....

Fridays are transition days and are typically more open than other days because Jackie has trouble with the transitions generally speaking. We can try to find availability....I think 6 to 8 hours per week is pushing it with all the other appointments we have...

Special Note: Jackie is suffering from consequences of Long-Covid. Memory problems....that are on top of pre-existing autism and adhd related memory problems...shortness of breath... extreme fatigue... random other symptoms...

We saw the Long Covid Clinic at Norton/Novak Center here in Louisville this week. The NP recommended that Jackie be seen by Cardiology, by a Pulmonologist to do pulmonary function testing, and she advised that Jackie should be enrolled in the Pediatric Rehabilitation Program. She said the children are being treated as if they had a concussion or other traumatic brain injury. She said at the start, that we would need to meet with them at least once per week. I don't know when these appointments are going to be yet because we have so many other appointments. Additionally, she said that Jackie needs to focus on rest right now and emphasized that Jackie should not be spending too much time on school - she said the rehabilitation people would basically advise on how much time Jackie could or should spend each week on school and other brain-related activities. I am not sure how ABA therapy folds into that mix as I have somewhat of a vague understanding of the therapy itself.

If this info is not helpful enough, we can schedule a call to talk if that will work better. What are your thoughts?

The purpose of my email is to solidify a schedule for your home that I can communicate to potential therapists. I want to make sure the schedule is set as therapists value consistent hours each week.

Jackie has been recommended 25 hours per week of ABA therapy. Understanding the schedule, we may not be able to reach the recommended hours, but it is best to get close as possible.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

Dr. Reynolds,

We will make at least 12 hours work. Unfortunately, I cannot control the schedules of other providers involved in care, or my life would be a lot easier. When I am back at my laptop, I can send you each week's schedule that is already scheduled through the next 8 weeks to 12 weeks or something, and we can go from there. Will that work?

Hi –

Thank you for the information. 25 hours per week of ABA therapy is typical for this type of therapy. Usually, ABA therapy is the 'main' therapy that is received. For Jackie, that is not the case – so that makes scheduling and servicing challenging. 25 hours is the recommended treatment hours; however, we understand family schedules. Unfortunately, given the behaviors and skill deficits described during the assessment, six to eight hours will not be sufficient for this type of therapy.

At minimum, ten to twelve hours per week would need to be met to move forward with the service. In addition, it will be extremely difficult to staff a case with anything less than ten hours.

If you can meet the minimum hour requirement, I will need you to send me a schedule that will work you and Jackie for ABA therapy. If you can be direct with the schedule, it would be very helpful (e.g., Monday 1:00p – 430p, Tues 330p – 630p, Wed …..)

If your family cannot meet the minimum hour requirement, SpringHealth unfortunately will not be able to offer ABA therapy.

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

Monday on my weeks, yes correct - that I cannot be trying to do anything because I have IVIG all day. In case you are not aware of what that procedure is, or so you can have a more full understanding...I have a home health nurse that comes and administers IgG intravenously over a period of 6 to 8 hours. I have to be dosed up on Tylenol and on Benadryl to hopefully avoid side effects and I have to have things like BP and heart rate checked every 30 minutes (and at the start of infusion every 15 minutes). This is a weekly and likely life-long treatment...

Also - I receive Copper infusion treatments and those are done at outpatient cancer centers. Those are done every 60 days and take about 6 hours in total.

On Tuesdays, yes it is possible to arrive during the school day - I would prefer a bit earlier in the day actually if possible...however...I have a standing art therapy appointment from 1pm to 2pm on every Tuesday.

25 hours per week seems like it is A LOT of therapy....I mention this because if you add in the other appointments alone, that occupies far too much schedule time to be able to do school and pre-existing obligations - art therapy for Jackie, talk therapy for Jackie, my appointments, time that is not time spent in a therapy session or doing school...etc....so we are not going to meet 25 hours per week.

Ideally, I'd like it if we could have the therapy be over by 5pm. On Thursdays, Jackie has art therapy at 12 to 1 pm, and we have various other appointments on a weekly basis - same is true for every day of the week. If therapist wants to come earlier, that is fine. Jackie is very defiant when it comes to home school and I don't know how to handle that....consequences are not effective...nor is praise....

Fridays are transition days and are typically more open than other days because Jackie has trouble with the transitions generally speaking. We can try to find availability....I think 6 to 8 hours per week is pushing it with all the other appointments we have...

Special Note: Jackie is suffering from consequences of Long-Covid. Memory problems....that are on top of pre-existing autism and adhd related memory problems...shortness of breath... extreme fatigue... random other symptoms...

We saw the Long Covid Clinic at Norton/Novak Center here in Louisville this week. The NP recommended that Jackie be seen by Cardiology, by a Pulmonologist to do pulmonary function testing, and she advised that Jackie should be enrolled in the Pediatric Rehabilitation Program. She said the children are being treated as if they had a concussion or other traumatic brain injury. She said at the start, that we would need to meet with them at least once per week. I don't know when these appointments are going to be yet because we have so many other appointments. Additionally, she said that Jackie needs to focus on rest right now and emphasized that Jackie should not be spending too much time on school - she said the rehabilitation people would basically advise on how much time Jackie could or should spend each week on school and other brain-related activities. I am not sure how ABA therapy folds into that mix as I have somewhat of a vague understanding of the therapy itself.

If this info is not helpful enough, we can schedule a call to talk if that will work better. What are your thoughts?

The purpose of my email is to solidify a schedule for your home that I can communicate to potential therapists. I want to make sure the schedule is set as therapists value consistent hours each week.

Jackie has been recommended 25 hours per week of ABA therapy. Understanding the schedule, we may not be able to reach the recommended hours, but it is best to get close as possible.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

Great.

Yes send me a schedule that works for your home. I called Lindsay yesterday to work with her for a schedule at her home. Have not heard back.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

Subject: ABA Schedule - Solidifying

Hi Mr. Fouts –

I hope you and Jackie are doing well!

The purpose of my email is to solidify a schedule for your home that I can communicate to potential therapists. I want to make sure the schedule is set as therapists value consistent hours each week.

Jackie has been recommended 25 hours per week of ABA therapy. Understanding the schedule, we may not be able to reach the recommended hours, but it is best to get close as possible.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

I don't know where pages 1 and 4 are...I happened across these while packing boxes to move. I can reach out to CO to see if I can get a full record, but since I am divorced now, they may not allow me to, and I am not about to ask my ex to do that...as she might take out her anger toward me against Jackie.....it is a delicate situation.

Hi Dr. Reynolds,

It was so very nice to meet you in person today. You have such a pleasant and warm demeanor. Thank you for being so kind.

I am attaching the reports below because I thought they might be of interest in some way.

I also wanted to ask if you knew of anyone that could help us apply for SSI for Jackie. Do you know of anyone that can help basically handle all the paperwork and application for me? I am actually very, very overwhelmed.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thanks for clarifying the time line.

Jack has now started to go by Jackie, so I will be using she/her pronouns now, to refer to her.

Jackie is homeschooled, so timing is flexible.

Jackie has art therapy at noon on Thursdays. Can the assessment take place at 9:30 or 10 am on the 13th? Art therapy is the most important current therapy Jackie has.

We went to the psychiatric hospital last night due to active suicidal plans Jackie was making. I feel aba therapy will help in that area too so there is definitely a sense of urgency.

Please let me know if the earlier time slot will work, and also how much time is needed for the assessment.

This email is related to scheduled therapy times. I needed to know his availability for a potential therapist. This is how we find someone who meets your scheduling need to 1:1 therapy.

The question re: the assessment is separate from an initial assessment. – therefore, I particularly asked about his fall break schedule because this would need to occur in the morning.

I also would like to be very clear that after the initial assessment is complete, it will be sent to insurance for authorization to provide direct services. There will be a waiting period for services to formally begin. This could be anywhere from two months and up. This service requires a staff specifically for Jack to be hired. SpringHealth is currently seeking therapists and a BCBA for Jack's service. - - I wanted to be sure you knew that.

As always, choice in provider is up to the family and you may continue your search for ABA therapy for Jack if this does not suit your family's needs. Please let me know.

If you'd like to continue with the process, I'd like to schedule his initial assessment for Thursday October 13th at 11:15am. We can also do this in person at but there is also a virtual option via zoom.

Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Thank you.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

Hi Mr. Fouts -

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.
2. I had my auth specialist start to initiate the auth process so that we can at least get that part going. - - Please provide me with:

    a. Current mailing address - Jack lives with me 50% of the time and also does home school at my house during his mother's weeks, and lives with her the other 50% of the time. My address is 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204. Her address (Lindsay Fouts) is 13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302 Louisville, KY 40243
    b. Phone number - My # is 502.956.0052. Lindsay's number is 502.475.6896
    c. Jack's SSN – this is needed to complete the request for the auth. - 309.3752.86
    d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thanks for clarifying the time line.

Jack has now started to go by Jackie, so I will be using she/her pronouns now, to refer to her.

Jackie is homeschooled, so timing is flexible.

Jackie has art therapy at noon on Thursdays. Can the assessment take place at 9:30 or 10 am on the 13th? Art therapy is the most important current therapy Jackie has.

We went to the psychiatric hospital last night due to active suicidal plans Jackie was making. I feel aba therapy will help in that area too so there is definitely a sense of urgency.

Please let me know if the earlier time slot will work, and also how much time is needed for the assessment.

I also would like to be very clear that after the initial assessment is complete, it will be sent to insurance for authorization to provide direct services. There will be a waiting period for services to formally begin. This could be anywhere from two months and up. This service requires a staff specifically for Jack to be hired. SpringHealth is currently seeking therapists and a BCBA for Jack's service. - - I wanted to be sure you knew that.

As always, choice in provider is up to the family and you may continue your search for ABA therapy for Jack if this does not suit your family's needs. Please let me know.

If you'd like to continue with the process, I'd like to schedule his initial assessment for Thursday October 13th at 11:15am. We can also do this in person at but there is also a virtual option via zoom.

Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Great. I am excited to meet Jackie.

I will be coming to your home from Indiana and will need two hours travel. I can certainly be at your home by 10:20am. I will need about an hour or so.

Thank you

Dr. Reynolds,

Thanks for clarifying the time line.

Jack has now started to go by Jackie, so I will be using she/her pronouns now, to refer to her.

Jackie is homeschooled, so timing is flexible.

Jackie has art therapy at noon on Thursdays. Can the assessment take place at 9:30 or 10 am on the 13th? Art therapy is the most important current therapy Jackie has.

We went to the psychiatric hospital last night due to active suicidal plans Jackie was making. I feel aba therapy will help in that area too so there is definitely a sense of urgency.

Please let me know if the earlier time slot will work, and also how much time is needed for the assessment.

If you'd like to continue with the process, I'd like to schedule his initial assessment for Thursday October 13th at 11:15am. We can also do this in person at but there is also a virtual option via zoom.

Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Thank you.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

Hi Mr. Fouts -

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.
2. I had my auth specialist start to initiate the auth process so that we can at least get that part going. - - Please provide me with:
    a. Current mailing address - Jack lives with me 50% of the time and also does home school at my house during his mother's weeks, and lives with her the other 50% of the time. My address is 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204. Her address (Lindsay Fouts) is 13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302 Louisville, KY 40243
    b. Phone number - My # is 502.956.0052. Lindsay's number is 502.475.6896
    c. Jack's SSN – this is needed to complete the request for the auth. - 309.3752.86
    d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.
3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Subject: Re: When can we schedule an appt?

This email is related to scheduled therapy times. I needed to know his availability for a potential therapist. This is how we find someone who meets your scheduling need to 1:1 therapy.

The question re: the assessment is separate from an initial assessment. – therefore, I particularly asked about his fall break schedule because this would need to occur in the morning.

I also would like to be very clear that after the initial assessment is complete, it will be sent to insurance for authorization to provide direct services. There will be a waiting period for services to formally begin. This could be anywhere from two months and up. This service requires a staff specifically for Jack to be hired. SpringHealth is currently seeking therapists and a BCBA for Jack's service. - - I wanted to be sure you knew that.

As always, choice in provider is up to the family and you may continue your search for ABA therapy for Jack if this does not suit your family's needs. Please let me know.

If you'd like to continue with the process, I'd like to schedule his initial assessment for Thursday October 13th at 11:15am. We can also do this in person at but there is also a virtual option via zoom.

Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Thank you.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

John

This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Hi Mr. Fouts -

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.
2. I had my auth specialist start to initiate the auth process so that we can at least get that part going. - - Please provide me with:
    a. Current mailing address
    b. Phone number
    c. Jack's SSN – this is needed to complete the request for the auth.
    d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services.
3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached).
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Hi John -

Yes I received word that we were added to Humana Medicaid. I have not seen an updated contract come across my desk to solidify the agreement.

I need to get the new details uploaded to our systems in order to move forward.

Thanks for cc'ing LaTiela -

1. LaTiela - will a new contract be sent to SH with the updated contract info, rates, and list of requirements that you all need in order to generate a PA for Jack?
2. If you have the requirements handy, please send them to me along with the necessary insurance forms and fax number that the forms need to be sent to. - I have an auth specialist that will need this information.

Thank you, both.

Hi RaShai.

I am following up again to see where we are at. It is my understanding that as of last week, you were added on to Humana Medicaid.

So I am wanting to know next steps please, so we can get Jack on your schedule…

Thank you.

Hi John -

I've replied to all emails that you have sent except for the email you sent on 9.5.22. Somehow, it was buried. I apologize for that.

I spoke with your insurance rep last week. I told her that Jack's insurance type was not in network with our company which caused us to attempt to ask the insurance company for a single case agreement. This is an agreement that would allow us to service Jack while not being in network with his insurance type. - I was under the impression that she would relay that information to you as she stated that you called her citing that you'd not heard from me.

Unfortunately at this time we have not gotten approval from insurance to provide services. We are waiting on their approval or denial. As soon as I hear I will be sure to let you and your rep know.

In the meantime, it is your choose as to whether you'll continue seeking services elsewhere for Jack from a provider who is already in network with his insurance type.

RaShai,

I cannot remember if I mentioned this or not, but Jack has started going by they/them. So I will say that Jack/they are with me this week until Friday, then they go to their mother's house for a week - we typically switch on Fridays. In the past, his mother had me take care of Jack on her weeks as well, for homeschooling, during the days of her weeks.

At this moment in time, however, while she is not working, Jack is spending a full week at her house as well - we alternate weeks.

Jack will go to her house on Friday for a week, then will be back with me for a week. I am looking for someone to professionally recommend consistent coparenting with a plan for both of us - we (Jack's mother and me) both need guidance with regard to how to handle many behaviors that we struggle with having a consistent solution for.

John

p.s. My fax number (personal/medical - goes only to me) is 502.996.8246 in the event that you would ever need to fax anything. Please reach out whenever it is possible to schedule the assessment. Thank you.

I am divorced. Jack spends 50% of the time with me and 50% with my ex-wife - generally though - a lot more time with me than 50% based on many circumstances. My preferred method of contact is via email or via text. My phone # is 502.956.0052 (John Fouts - Jack's dad).

For me, in-person would be great - I think that is the best way to get an accurate assessment.

My ex-wife's email address is lindsayfoutscpa@gmail.com, and her phone number is 502.475.6896 so you can reach her to ask her.

Do you do two separate assessments for a situation involving divorce? Or only one assessment? If only one assessment, then you will only need to schedule with me. My ex-wife is aware, of course, that I am trying to get Jack set up for ABA therapy, but she handles very little of his medical care (although in the past year, she has started to handle a little more).

At this moment in time, however, while she is not working, Jack is spending a full week at her house as well - we alternate weeks.

Jack will go to her house on Friday for a week, then will be back with me for a week. I am looking for someone to professionally recommend consistent coparenting with a plan for both of us - we (Jack's mother and me) both need guidance with regard to how to handle many behaviors that we struggle with having a consistent solution for.

I am divorced. Jack spends 50% of the time with me and 50% with my ex-wife - generally though - a lot more time with me than 50% based on many circumstances. My preferred method of contact is via email or via text. My phone # is 502.956.0052 (John Fouts - Jack's dad).

For me, in-person would be great - I think that is the best way to get an accurate assessment.

My ex-wife's email address is lindsayfoutscpa@gmail.com, and her phone number is 502.475.6896 so you can reach her to ask her.

Do you do two separate assessments for a situation involving divorce? Or only one assessment? If only one assessment, then you will only need to schedule with me. My ex-wife is aware, of course, that I am trying to get Jack set up for ABA therapy, but she handles very little of his medical care (although in the past year, she has started to handle a little more).

Thank you for the resources and references. I will pass these along to my ex-wife as well. We have a 50/50 split custody arrangement. Jack is with me one week, then with her one week, etc... we switch on Friday evenings.

My address is: 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204

Her address is: 13018 Observation Circle, Apt. 302, Louisville KY 40243

I've requested a written rx from the neuropsychiatrist that wrote the recommendations for Jack for Autism Spectrum Disorder. I also requested one from his PCP as I thought she might be able to handle it more quickly, but I don't know if she can write such a rx.

Can we go on and start the process while we are waiting?

Good morning –

Thank you for sending the documents. I've reviewed them and these will be perfect. I will await the prescription for ABA therapy for Jack. In the meantime, could you give me the address of the location where the therapy would take place if/when the insurance approves?

1. In reference to your request for evidence-based literature re: the efficacy of ABA therapy. There are many evidence-based pieces of literature to support its use. I've attached a couple.

    a. Excerpt from title "Where is the evidence? A Narrative Literature Review of the Treatment Modalities for Autism Spectrum Disorders that is attached:

        i. "ABA is used to reduce any interfering maladaptive behavior, to increase and reinforce desirable adaptive behaviors, teach new skills, and generalize behaviors to new situations and environments. The theory behind using ABA is that children with autism have difficulty in learning through imitation and listening as their normal peers do. The highly structured format seems to meet the needs of those who have autism and who typically respond to directness and routine. The techniques can be used in different types of situations such as natural everyday situations (e.g., during mealtime at home or play), structured situations (e.g., formal instruction in a classroom setting), and in 1-to-1 as well as group instruction setting."

    b. Autism Speaks (organization) has great explanations and information on their website. Here is a link to their website that discusses ABA therapy, the types of skills that the science can be used to improve (social, emotional, etc.) https://www.autismspeaks.org/applied-behavior-analysis

    c.

2. OT PT etc. typically pair well with ABA therapy. We do not currently offer those services in Kentucky.

RaShai (how do you say your name - I'm sorry - I should probably be able to figure it out - but I am super tired and in pain at the moment).

The one report shows the autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and adhd (re-establishing dx that already existed for adhd).

I also attached Jack's report that shows auditory processing disorder.

I am trying to get OT, PT, and Speech Therapy along with a Speech and Language Processing Evaluation in place. Jack is having really bad carpal-tunnel-like pain in both wrists and a lot of neck pain, and needs PT. The OT is more for the autism stuff and the speech stuff is for everything.

I will write to Jack's doctor next about getting a specific rx for ABA therapy. See the recommendations, in the report, however, for ABA therapy as well.

John

p.s. My ex-wife is not so sure about ABA therapy - she thinks it might be 'whipping a child into a form that is not okay' in her own words - but she heard that from a different parent who had a bad experience. Is there any scientific evidence/support that I can send to her with regard to utilizing ABA therapy for Autism? Our son is very sensitive, gender-fluid, and I understand her concerns - but we need to be able to provide structured consistent discipline as well and help him with regulation of emotions, and understand what people's tones mean and facial expressions, and work with emotional and social development. He is home-schooled too now which I fear may be putting him further behind in some ways, but much better in other ways - his teachers did not understand his chronic health problems nor his apd or adhd or autism despite having a 504 plan in place (that was not adhered to by the school).

Please confirm receipt of this email with the attachments.

Please let us know. Also, is the recommendation for aba therapy in the neuropsychiatric report enough, or do you need a separate written prescription document for Jack? Jack is 11.

Thank you for the resources and references. I will pass these along to my ex-wife as well. We have a 50/50 split custody arrangement. Jack is with me one week, then with her one week, etc... we switch on Friday evenings.

My address is: 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204

Her address is: 13018 Observation Circle, Apt. 302, Louisville KY 40243

I've requested a written rx from the neuropsychiatrist that wrote the recommendations for Jack for Autism Spectrum Disorder. I also requested one from his PCP as I thought she might be able to handle it more quickly, but I don't know if she can write such a rx.

Can we go on and start the process while we are waiting?

Good morning –

Thank you for sending the documents. I've reviewed them and these will be perfect. I will await the prescription for ABA therapy for Jack. In the meantime, could you give me the address of the location where the therapy would take place if/when the insurance approves?

1. In reference to your request for evidence-based literature re: the efficacy of ABA therapy. There are many evidence-based pieces of literature to support its use. I've attached a couple.

    a. Excerpt from title "Where is the evidence? A Narrative Literature Review of the Treatment Modalities for Autism Spectrum Disorders that is attached:

        i. "ABA is used to reduce any interfering maladaptive behavior, to increase and reinforce desirable adaptive behaviors, teach new skills, and generalize behaviors to new situations and environments. The theory behind using ABA is that children with autism have difficulty in learning through imitation and listening as their normal peers do. The highly structured format seems to meet the needs of those who have autism and who typically respond to directness and routine. The techniques can be used in different types of situations such as natural everyday situations (e.g., during mealtime at home or play), structured situations (e.g., formal instruction in a classroom setting), and in 1-to-1 as well as group instruction setting."

    b. Autism Speaks (organization) has great explanations and information on their website. Here is a link to their website that discusses ABA therapy, the types of skills that the science can be used to improve (social, emotional, etc.) https://www.autismspeaks.org/applied-behavior-analysis

    c.

2. OT PT etc. typically pair well with ABA therapy. We do not currently offer those services in Kentucky.

RaShai (how do you say your name - I'm sorry - I should probably be able to figure it out - but I am super tired and in pain at the moment).

The one report shows the autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and adhd (re-establishing dx that already existed for adhd).

I also attached Jack's report that shows auditory processing disorder.

I am trying to get OT, PT, and Speech Therapy along with a Speech and Language Processing Evaluation in place. Jack is having really bad carpal-tunnel-like pain in both wrists and a lot of neck pain, and needs PT. The OT is more for the autism stuff and the speech stuff is for everything.

I will write to Jack's doctor next about getting a specific rx for ABA therapy. See the recommendations, in the report, however, for ABA therapy as well.

John

p.s. My ex-wife is not so sure about ABA therapy - she thinks it might be 'whipping a child into a form that is not okay' in her own words - but she heard that from a different parent who had a bad experience. Is there any scientific evidence/support that I can send to her with regard to utilizing ABA therapy for Autism? Our son is very sensitive, gender-fluid, and I understand her concerns - but we need to be able to provide structured consistent discipline as well and help him with regulation of emotions, and understand what people's tones mean and facial expressions, and work with emotional and social development. He is home-schooled too now which I fear may be putting him further behind in some ways, but much better in other ways - his teachers did not understand his chronic health problems nor his apd or adhd or autism despite having a 504 plan in place (that was not adhered to by the school).

Please confirm receipt of this email with the attachments.

Great. Thanks for letting me know.

Unfortunately, we cannot start until we have the approval from insurance for an initial assessment. Spring Health will submit all the documents and request it, but that can only be done with all documents present.

Please let us know. Also, is the recommendation for aba therapy in the neuropsychiatric report enough, or do you need a separate written prescription document for Jack? Jack is 11.

Good morning –

Thank you for sending the documents. I've reviewed them and these will be perfect. I will await the prescription for ABA therapy for Jack. In the meantime, could you give me the address of the location where the therapy would take place if/when the insurance approves?

1. In reference to your request for evidence-based literature re: the efficacy of ABA therapy. There are many evidence-based pieces of literature to support its use. I've attached a couple.
    a. Excerpt from title "Where is the evidence? A Narrative Literature Review of the Treatment Modalities for Autism Spectrum Disorders that is attached:
        i. "ABA is used to reduce any interfering maladaptive behavior, to increase and reinforce desirable adaptive behaviors, teach new skills, and generalize behaviors to new situations and environments. The theory behind using ABA is that children with autism have difficulty in learning through imitation and listening as their normal peers do. The highly structured format seems to meet the needs of those who have autism and who typically respond to directness and routine. The techniques can be used in different types of situations such as natural everyday situations (e.g., during mealtime at home or play), structured situations (e.g., formal instruction in a classroom setting), and in 1-to-1 as well as group instruction setting."
    b. Autism Speaks (organization) has great explanations and information on their website. Here is a link to their website that discusses ABA therapy, the types of skills that the science can be used to improve (social, emotional, etc.) https://www.autismspeaks.org/applied-behavior-analysis
    c.
2. OT PT etc. typically pair well with ABA therapy. We do not currently offer those services in Kentucky.

RaShai (how do you say your name - I'm sorry - I should probably be able to figure it out - but I am super tired and in pain at the moment).

The one report shows the autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and adhd (re-establishing dx that already existed for adhd).

I also attached Jack's report that shows auditory processing disorder.

I am trying to get OT, PT, and Speech Therapy along with a Speech and Language Processing Evaluation in place. Jack is having really bad carpal-tunnel-like pain in both wrists and a lot of neck pain, and needs PT. The OT is more for the autism stuff and the speech stuff is for everything.

I will write to Jack's doctor next about getting a specific rx for ABA therapy. See the recommendations, in the report, however, for ABA therapy as well.

John

p.s. My ex-wife is not so sure about ABA therapy - she thinks it might be 'whipping a child into a form that is not okay' in her own words - but she heard that from a different parent who had a bad experience. Is there any scientific evidence/support that I can send to her with regard to utilizing ABA therapy for Autism? Our son is very sensitive, gender-fluid, and I understand her concerns - but we need to be able to provide structured consistent discipline as well and help him with regulation of emotions, and understand what people's tones mean and facial expressions, and work with emotional and social development. He is home-schooled too now which I fear may be putting him further behind in some ways, but much better in other ways - his teachers did not understand his chronic health problems nor his apd or adhd or autism despite having a 504 plan in place (that was not adhered to by the school).

Please confirm receipt of this email with the attachments.

Hi Lindsay -

It is with great regret that I must inform you that Dataya has had a change in her schedule. She recently notified me that Jackie's treatment schedule no longer works with her schedule. I did offer alternate options; however, she was not able to accommodate.

Therefore, she will not start, and I am again looking for therapist.

Susan – the BCBA is still slated to start and can offer parent training when she begins.

I am sorry for the inconvenience, and I will keep you posted.

Hi Lindsey.

Thanks for sending the other information.

A couple of updates.

I have an upcoming appt with my PCP on 10/11. We will be discussing the referral to Vanderbilt University at that time. I saw a NeuroImmunologist today who, unfortunately, decided not to run any tests or do any workup (and some is absolutely necessary), but the provider I saw (Dr. Robertson), did say that he would recommend to Dr. Murphy (my PCP) that I see Vanderbilt University - that should be enough to persuade her to write the referral to me. That is 2 doctors who are recommeding to her that I be referred there (the other is the Rheumatologist I saw at ETown Rheumatology).

Dr. Robertson (NeuroImmunologist), also said that he would recommend that I see Dr. Pestronk at Washington University in St. Louis. I need help knowing what I need to do in order to get Medicaid to allow me to go there.

I need to know who can provide home health caregiver services including things like light housework, light meal preparation, errands, light laundry....I need the help at this point in my life...I know these agencies exist....my doctor already wrote a PA and got it approved....but we don't know who to contact. I need your help there please. The doctor's office asked me to ask you.

ABA Therapy is getting all set up for Jack - now going by Jackie. Initial Assessment is slated to be on 10-13-2022 with Dr. RaShai Reynolds.

Please respond with above requested info asap. Thank you for your help. I hope you have had a great day.

Hi Megan.

I realize you are probably already gone from your office, but I wanted to check to see if you were able to get everything you needed to close your open case.

Please let me know. Thank you.

Hi Megan.

Of course. I left you a message after you called last week, but I hadn't heard back from you. The only report that I am aware of is from 2017, and involved a charge of child abuse against my ex-wife, and was filed in Colorado. Is that still open?? After 7 years??

I didn't see your email until today.

So you know, my son is now my daughter (male to female transgender). She goes by Jackie and prefers the full name Jaqquelyn. We have not made the official legal name change yet, however, so legally, as of now, still, Jackie is Jack A. Fouts. So when you talk to her, please refer to her as Jackie and use she/her pronouns.

Jackie has a lot of things going on. Mental health problems is a big one. Autism of course. Extreme aggression, anger, and range toward me is another…need help here with her care.

I was thinking maybe 2 to 5 hours at school and the balance at home each week ....

The Phoenix School of Discovery is the name of the school...it is in Lyndon, KY near Oxmoor (but in Louisville)....

I would be happy to try for staffing at school. Please remind me what school she will be attending. If you would like to proceed with school, you'll need to ask the school if they will allow a therapist in, and if so, how much?

Her insurance will allow for 20 hours per week. We don't have to utilize all 20; however, the more hours, the better it would be to find a staff.

I am super glad that you are able to help out with the information -- there was nothing attached so I don't have anything I can sign for you yet. Please send when possible.

As far as the hours go...I think it is absolutely wonderful that Jackie is going back to the school system (it was no longer working regarding homeschooling with Jackie showing so much resentment toward me for homeschooling on mom's weeks -- although that was her choice to have Jackie be with me during the day on her weeks - but Jackie resented me strongly for it..... that all being said....we are going to be back to a more equal and even schedule (which will be really good for Jackie/Jaqquelyn). I am trying to get used to using Jaqquelyn, but I am not used to it yet.

School hours are 8:40 to 3:20....so...with commute just say 8 to 4....I don't know if there would be a way to do some hours at school. I am trying to get school therapy set up presently too (with 7 county services - to maintain the case worker). The therapy will probably be 1 hour per week at school. I think Jackie is going to need more support than that so it would be great to have some ABA at school...and maybe on Mondays (because transitioning from the weekend to the school week can be hard...and because especially on my weeks...I have IVIG on Mondays...)....

Please let me know your thoughts. I know nothing about Jackie's mom's weeks other than she works from home on Tue, Wed, and Friday now...

I don't want to discharge - let's aim for the 10 hours per week. I understand it is a lot. I thought we had finally started getting somewhere when Susan was regularly coming over here - now I feel like that progress has been lost.

Can you please send a note to Stacy Polk at 7 County Services stating that we have been receiving services from your organization during the time Susan came here, and that we have been awaiting a therapist for ABA since then?

Well, Jaqquelyn (please note spelling) is going to The Phoenix School starting in August - for 7th grade - that will be 8:20 am to 2:20 pm.... We are going to have to leave where I live by like 7:40 am at the latest to get there on time....and the earliest we will be back is 3:00 pm. School starts, I think, on August 12th. I have IVIG on Mondays and am out of commission by the afternoon on most days after an 8 hour long infusion -- sometimes I can barely make it to the grocery store or something if we need food desperately on a Monday. Fridays are transitional days so I'd like to avoid those because they are already so hard for Jackie. 10 to 15 hours seems like too much - we need something in between 0 and that much...

Lindsay, Jaqquelyn's mom, just got a new apartment right next to the Phoenix School - I think that will help Jackie out a lot.

I have art therapy (Telehealth) on Tuesdays from home. If she wanted to come for a couple of hours on Tuesday the 13th - like from 12:00 to 2:00 that would be great for Jackie (who is now going by the full name Jaqquelyn). She is growing into herself - you know?

p.s. Sorry about the delay - I have a pretty severe UTI at the moment and am having a hard time doing anything really.

They basically said it wasn't their primary focus...and told us we would have to go see a different therapy place - which SUCKS - because Jackie has had good luck and made progress at the current therapy place, but if we want to get the letter (which we must have) to go to the endocrinology clinic (even to just talk to counselors there), we have to change. Thanks for the idea of going the psychiatry route too.

Dr. Reynolds - thanks for following up. I promise I have not forgotten about getting back to you. I am really continuing to struggle a great deal with my health....with life in general....with my ex-wife's on-going mental health hospital inpatient stays and how they affect Jackie etc...

I would like to know if we could start off by aiming for 1:00 to 5:00 on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. We need to ease into it some for Jackie. Can we please start with this - 8 hours per week?

Thursdays are pretty full for Jackie already with Susan coming, and with Art Therapy in the evenings.

I see. Thanks for bearing with me as I gain further understanding of the process. It is complicated because we are living at my parents' house, and not at my own home or place of residence. It complicates things in many ways.

May I ask you, please, to reach out to me early next week? I recently learned I have a spinal tumor in a bone of my vertebrae, and I am scheduled to see an Oncologist this Thursday, and my mind is somewhat preoccupied at the moment. Could I ask you, please, to reach out to me again early next week? I am not trying to put you off - I have a lot on my mind at the moment.

Let me know is that makes sense.

What is an RBT and how does this impact the schedule with Susan? We are going to need to adjust the time some probably. Please answer when possible. Thank you.

Dr. Reynolds,

She had not contacted me via telephone, and the only correspondence I had received from her was an email she sent last night at 8:14 p.m. I had not yet had a chance to respond to the email due to having a TMS therapy appointment this morning, trying to get in touch with a case manager, and preparing for my bankruptcy meeting, which just ended. As soon as the bankruptcy meeting ended, I wrote to her, and copied you. I don't know if she may have been calling the wrong number? She understands that me and Jackie's mother are divorced doesn't she? The only thing I can think is that she was only trying to reach out to Jackie's mom??

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

I was in the middle of moving, so I was not yet able to reach out to you, but now the move is finalized (although - hopefully it will be a temporary move).

Jackie and I are now living at:

184 Cedarview Dr.
Shepherdsville, KY 40165

I am living in the basement of my parents' home with Jackie.

Jackie is still with her mother every other week at:

13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302
Louisville, KY 40243

Jackie still does homeschool during all weeks, and on Jackie's mother's weeks, does homeschool now at 184 Cedarview Dr. Shepherdsville, KY 40165 (the same address I gave you above that we have moved to).

If you should have any questions, please let me know. Thank you for the status update. It is appreciated.

If it is possible for you to send me/us the therapy goals for Jackie so I can view them prior to meeting, I would like to do so. I always like to have time to think about things and formulate questions if I have any based on the information at hand. It is just how I am built.

Thanks Dr. Reynolds.

Oh - our holiday went okay - but it was bittersweet....moving during the holiday season is not easy. Hope yours was good also.

I am excited to get things started for your family and still working hard to locate a therapist.

Are you all still at the same address that I visited?

Thank you!

Dr. Reynolds,

No changes as of yet, however, I would suggest that we did not begin until after the New Year holiday - I realize it is unlikely you would have one prior to then anyway.

I apologize in the delay in getting back to you - it has been a very challenging time for me as the chronic fatigue syndrome issues I deal with are continuing to become more exacerbated for whatever reason - with no known trigger - it is very difficult as I have been pretty much bed-bound for a couple of years in the past - I do not want to have that life again - but when your health is slipping - and nobody knows how to help - it is very challenging.

I am going to be following up with Dr. David Charles at Meridian Behavioral Health (who did Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation previously), and seeing if they may have any options. I will keep you posted - I do not think they offer ABA - but other services may be able to fulfill the current gap/need that exists in Jackie's healthcare.

Unless anything changes though, the current plan, is to continue waiting on your group, to provide an ABA therapist for Jackie. Thank you so much for checking in.

Hi Mr. Fouts –

The therapist's name is Dataya (Duh-tie-yuh).

No, there will be no therapy on Thanksgiving Day. You should expect to have therapy on Wednesday, though.

Email: Dataya.Hooks@springhealthbehavioral.com

Phone: 319.520.5044

Your BCBA will be Susan McConnell. She is still onboarding and I will provide you her contact information when she is complete 😊

Would this be for one week?

I would need to leave work early.

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

We will make that work! Thanks for helping out with finding a therapist, and with working within the already busy schedule. I appreciate that more than you know.

The 16th is indeed one of Lindsay's weeks.

Thanks again.

Hi Dr. Reynolds (again)...

Thanks for your patience. I completely understand what you are saying about the number of hours required for therapy. When you see our schedule, it might make more sense as to why I am having trouble finding how to get it to fit in, but I think we will be able to accommodate 12 hours....we need to start there at the lower end in order to find time and see if there is a good benefit. I know we need to do something differently...I feel like I am losing my child to mental issues and mental illness and I need help with things.

When Lindsay picked up Jackie this afternoon, just a few minutes ago, I told her you had been trying to reach her to schedule time during her weeks.

I have attached the schedule for Jackie and myself for the weeks through March 1.

Keep in mind:

* The time-slots for speech therapy and OT have not been yet confirmed.

* I need to schedule an appointment and pulmonary testing for Jackie - TBD

* I need to schedule an appointment to have Jackie's eyes checked out (eye exam), and to see what might be causing the eye issues Jackie is experiencing.

* I am working on getting a prescriber in place that is a specialist - I have reached out to Meridian Health who did Jackie's neuropsychiatric evaluation

* I am trying to get Jackie scheduled to see the P.A.G.E. Clinic. They specialize in gender dysphoria. I may be able to have Meridian Health take over this piece too, however, as they are a gender affirming practice.

* Jackie has occasional dermatology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* Jackie has occasional neurology appointments that are scheduled as there is availability

* I am working on finding a group setting or a way to have Jackie in some way interact with children Jackie's own age to learn more social and emotional soft skills and to learn how to better read non-verbal behavior and social cues

* I don't know what to do, but Jackie's anger has spiraled out of control

* Jackie is dealing with Long Covid symptoms - the long covid clinic recommended appointments have largely not been set up yet

* I, John, have an endovenous laser ablation surgery that I need to schedule for my left leg greater saphenous vein to be ablated - recovery was harder than I thought it would be when I had to do this for my right leg earlier this year

* I am trying to get TMS therapy for myself, but having trouble finding a way to get it as it is a commitment that requires every day presence for around a month

Please see the attached calendar, and please let me know if you have any questions/comments/suggestions about what you recommend in terms of timing.

Thank you Dr. Reynolds! I'm so sorry that there are so many complicating factors with our situation. On top of everything else, I will likely be filing Chapter 7 Bankruptcy in the very near future ... unless I can find some other way ...

Dr. Reynolds,

We will make at least 12 hours work. Unfortunately, I cannot control the schedules of other providers involved in care, or my life would be a lot easier. When I am back at my laptop, I can send you each week's schedule that is already scheduled through the next 8 weeks to 12 weeks or something, and we can go from there. Will that work?

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

Monday on my weeks, yes correct - that I cannot be trying to do anything because I have IVIG all day. In case you are not aware of what that procedure is, or so you can have a more full understanding...I have a home health nurse that comes and administers IgG intravenously over a period of 6 to 8 hours. I have to be dosed up on Tylenol and on Benadryl to hopefully avoid side effects and I have to have things like BP and heart rate checked every 30 minutes (and at the start of infusion every 15 minutes). This is a weekly and likely life-long treatment...

Also - I receive Copper infusion treatments and those are done at outpatient cancer centers. Those are done every 60 days and take about 6 hours in total.

On Tuesdays, yes it is possible to arrive during the school day - I would prefer a bit earlier in the day actually if possible...however...I have a standing art therapy appointment from 1pm to 2pm on every Tuesday.

25 hours per week seems like it is A LOT of therapy....I mention this because if you add in the other appointments alone, that occupies far too much schedule time to be able to do school and pre-existing obligations - art therapy for Jackie, talk therapy for Jackie, my appointments, time that is not time spent in a therapy session or doing school...etc....so we are not going to meet 25 hours per week.

Ideally, I'd like it if we could have the therapy be over by 5pm. On Thursdays, Jackie has art therapy at 12 to 1 pm, and we have various other appointments on a weekly basis - same is true for every day of the week. If therapist wants to come earlier, that is fine. Jackie is very defiant when it comes to home school and I don't know how to handle that....consequences are not effective...nor is praise....

Fridays are transition days and are typically more open than other days because Jackie has trouble with the transitions generally speaking. We can try to find availability....I think 6 to 8 hours per week is pushing it with all the other appointments we have...

Special Note: Jackie is suffering from consequences of Long-Covid. Memory problems....that are on top of pre-existing autism and adhd related memory problems...shortness of breath... extreme fatigue... random other symptoms...

We saw the Long Covid Clinic at Norton/Novak Center here in Louisville this week. The NP recommended that Jackie be seen by Cardiology, by a Pulmonologist to do pulmonary function testing, and she advised that Jackie should be enrolled in the Pediatric Rehabilitation Program. She said the children are being treated as if they had a concussion or other traumatic brain injury. She said at the start, that we would need to meet with them at least once per week. I don't know when these appointments are going to be yet because we have so many other appointments. Additionally, she said that Jackie needs to focus on rest right now and emphasized that Jackie should not be spending too much time on school - she said the rehabilitation people would basically advise on how much time Jackie could or should spend each week on school and other brain-related activities. I am not sure how ABA therapy folds into that mix as I have somewhat of a vague understanding of the therapy itself.

If this info is not helpful enough, we can schedule a call to talk if that will work better. What are your thoughts?

Hi Mr. Fouts –

The purpose of my email is to solidify a schedule for your home that I can communicate to potential therapists. I want to make sure the schedule is set as therapists value consistent hours each week.

Jackie has been recommended 25 hours per week of ABA therapy. Understanding the schedule, we may not be able to reach the recommended hours, but it is best to get close as possible.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

Dr. Reynolds,

We will make at least 12 hours work. Unfortunately, I cannot control the schedules of other providers involved in care, or my life would be a lot easier. When I am back at my laptop, I can send you each week's schedule that is already scheduled through the next 8 weeks to 12 weeks or something, and we can go from there. Will that work?

For Jackie, that is not the case – so that makes scheduling and servicing challenging. 25 hours is the recommended treatment hours; however, we understand family schedules. Unfortunately, given the behaviors and skill deficits described during the assessment, six to eight hours will not be sufficient for this type of therapy.

Hi Dr. Reynolds.

Monday on my weeks, yes correct - that I cannot be trying to do anything because I have IVIG all day. In case you are not aware of what that procedure is, or so you can have a more full understanding...I have a home health nurse that comes and administers IgG intravenously over a period of 6 to 8 hours. I have to be dosed up on Tylenol and on Benadryl to hopefully avoid side effects and I have to have things like BP and heart rate checked every 30 minutes (and at the start of infusion every 15 minutes). This is a weekly and likely life-long treatment...

Also - I receive Copper infusion treatments and those are done at outpatient cancer centers. Those are done every 60 days and take about 6 hours in total.

On Tuesdays, yes it is possible to arrive during the school day - I would prefer a bit earlier in the day actually if possible...however...I have a standing art therapy appointment from 1pm to 2pm on every Tuesday.

25 hours per week seems like it is A LOT of therapy....I mention this because if you add in the other appointments alone, that occupies far too much schedule time to be able to do school and pre-existing obligations - art therapy for Jackie, talk therapy for Jackie, my appointments, time that is not time spent in a therapy session or doing school...etc....so we are not going to meet 25 hours per week.

Ideally, I'd like it if we could have the therapy be over by 5pm. On Thursdays, Jackie has art therapy at 12 to 1 pm, and we have various other appointments on a weekly basis - same is true for every day of the week. If therapist wants to come earlier, that is fine. Jackie is very defiant when it comes to home school and I don't know how to handle that....consequences are not effective...nor is praise....

Fridays are transition days and are typically more open than other days because Jackie has trouble with the transitions generally speaking. We can try to find availability....I think 6 to 8 hours per week is pushing it with all the other appointments we have...

Special Note: Jackie is suffering from consequences of Long-Covid. Memory problems....that are on top of pre-existing autism and adhd related memory problems...shortness of breath... extreme fatigue... random other symptoms...

We saw the Long Covid Clinic at Norton/Novak Center here in Louisville this week. The NP recommended that Jackie be seen by Cardiology, by a Pulmonologist to do pulmonary function testing, and she advised that Jackie should be enrolled in the Pediatric Rehabilitation Program. She said the children are being treated as if they had a concussion or other traumatic brain injury. She said at the start, that we would need to meet with them at least once per week. I don't know when these appointments are going to be yet because we have so many other appointments. Additionally, she said that Jackie needs to focus on rest right now and emphasized that Jackie should not be spending too much time on school - she said the rehabilitation people would basically advise on how much time Jackie could or should spend each week on school and other brain-related activities. I am not sure how ABA therapy folds into that mix as I have somewhat of a vague understanding of the therapy itself.

If this info is not helpful enough, we can schedule a call to talk if that will work better. What are your thoughts?

Hi Mr. Fouts –

I hope you and Jackie are doing well!

The purpose of my email is to solidify a schedule for your home that I can communicate to potential therapists. I want to make sure the schedule is set as therapists value consistent hours each week.

Jackie has been recommended 25 hours per week of ABA therapy. Understanding the schedule, we may not be able to reach the recommended hours, but it is best to get close as possible.

I want to ask about additional possible availability. I know Jackie is home schooled and it would not be at all rare for therapists to be present at a school (if the school allows) to assist.

Based on the information that I have your home has the following availability. Ive added my questions in red.

M – None (father has appts).

T - 500p - 700p Is it possible for the therapist to arrive during the school day? 3:30pm – 630p?

W - 2p - 700p Good. 3:30pm – 630p?

Th - 500p - 700p (could be earlier when PT ends). Has PT ended? Is 3:30p – 700p feasible if so?
F - Transition days (between 5p - 6p) Are any hours possible this day? Two to three if necessary?

Would you like weekend sessions at all?

Once I receive confirmation I will work a schedule and see if you are ok with it being shared with a potential therapist.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thanks for clarifying the time line.

Jack has now started to go by Jackie, so I will be using she/her pronouns now, to refer to her.

Jackie is homeschooled, so timing is flexible.

Jackie has art therapy at noon on Thursdays. Can the assessment take place at 9:30 or 10 am on the 13th? Art therapy is the most important current therapy Jackie has.

We went to the psychiatric hospital last night due to active suicidal plans Jackie was making. I feel aba therapy will help in that area too so there is definitely a sense of urgency.

Please let me know if the earlier time slot will work, and also how much time is needed for the assessment.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

Hi Mr. Fouts -

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.
2. I had my auth specialist start to initiate the auth process so that we can at least get that part going. - - Please provide me with:

    a. Current mailing address - Jack lives with me 50% of the time and also does home school at my house during his mother's weeks, and lives with her the other 50% of the time. My address is 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204. Her address (Lindsay Fouts) is 13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302 Louisville, KY 40243

c. Jack's SSN – this is needed to complete the request for the auth. - 309.3752.86
d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thanks for clarifying the time line.

Jack has now started to go by Jackie, so I will be using she/her pronouns now, to refer to her.

Jackie is homeschooled, so timing is flexible.

Jackie has art therapy at noon on Thursdays. Can the assessment take place at 9:30 or 10 am on the 13th? Art therapy is the most important current therapy Jackie has.

We went to the psychiatric hospital last night due to active suicidal plans Jackie was making. I feel aba therapy will help in that area too so there is definitely a sense of urgency.

Please let me know if the earlier time slot will work, and also how much time is needed for the assessment.

This email is related to scheduled therapy times. I needed to know his availability for a potential therapist. This is how we find someone who meets your scheduling need to 1:1 therapy.

The question re: the assessment is separate from an initial assessment. – therefore, I particularly asked about his fall break schedule because this would need to occur in the morning.

I also would like to be very clear that after the initial assessment is complete, it will be sent to insurance for authorization to provide direct services. There will be a waiting period for services to formally begin. This could be anywhere from two months and up. This service requires a staff specifically for Jack to be hired. SpringHealth is currently seeking therapists and a BCBA for Jack's service. - - I wanted to be sure you knew that.

As always, choice in provider is up to the family and you may continue your search for ABA therapy for Jack if this does not suit your family's needs. Please let me know.

If you'd like to continue with the process, I'd like to schedule his initial assessment for Thursday October 13th at 11:15am. We can also do this in person at but there is also a virtual option via zoom.

Please let me know how you would like to proceed.

Thank you.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

Hi Mr. Fouts -

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.
2. I had my auth specialist start to initiate the auth process so that we can at least get that part going. - - Please provide me with:

    a. Current mailing address - Jack lives with me 50% of the time and also does home school at my house during his mother's weeks, and lives with her the other 50% of the time. My address is 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204. Her address (Lindsay Fouts) is 13018 Observation Circle Apt. 302 Louisville, KY 40243
    b. Phone number - My # is 502.956.0052. Lindsay's number is 502.475.6896
    c. Jack's SSN – this is needed to complete the request for the auth. - 309.3752.86
    d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around 5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

Dr. Reynolds,

I talked to our new case management person at Humana today. Her name is Lindsey. Her number is 888-285-1121 x1047729.

I told her that the last time we talked, there was an issue regarding your point:

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.

Have you heard anything with regard to an update? When I spoke to the case manager (Lindsey) today, she said to check in with you on that, and to let her know if you are still waiting on anything. She said if you were....that she would contact LaTiela...find out who LaTiela spoke with...and see if she could help from the Humana end of things.

I told her that the last time we talked, there was an issue regarding your point:

1. I do not have an amended contract for signature for Jack's insurance. Until I have that, I cannot get his insurance uploaded to our funder list to be able to provide the service. I inquired about that with our credentialing specialist – awaiting a status update.

Have you heard anything with regard to an update? When I spoke to the case manager (Lindsey) today, she said to check in with you on that, and to let her know if you are still waiting on anything. She said if you were....that she would contact LaTiela...find out who LaTiela spoke with...and see if she could help from the Humana end of things.

Dr. Reynolds,

Thank you. I appreciate you getting back to me with items that can help to smooth the process. I know some people are very particular about going by titles, and I did not ask you - so I apologize for that. Do you prefer Dr. Reynolds or RaShai? I am an informal person in general, but want to respect what you would like me to call you.

Thanks for realizing I have been, and continue to be, patient.

I will send the survey/report separately.

For other information, please see below in blue. Please call me John by the way.

>   d. Specific days and times that Jack will be available for therapy services once approved (e.g., M-F 300p – 700p). This will be very important and helpful to provide to the therapist that would provide the direct services. - I can only speak as to my schedule and not to Lindsay's. For hers, you will need to reach out to her to see when she is available. For me, with the number of doctor appointments I have between me and Jack, the times are likely going to vary week by week as we are bound by other outside factors of which we have no control (other doctors' schedules). In general, Mondays will not work because I receive IVIG on Mondays and am stuck in my bed with an IV in my arm and dosed on Benadryl and it would not be a good time. Fridays are transition days (we normally transition on Friday evenings around

5 to 6 pm). I feel that transition days would not be best for Jack. So Tue, Wed, or Thurs...speaking generally....Tuesday 5pm - 7pm (this will change to earlier availability once Jack completes this round of physical therapy), Wednesday 2pm to 7pm, and Thursday 5pm to 7pm. This can and will change based on other doctors appointments, but once we get something established I will try to keep it routine as much as possible.

3. I have also attached our questionnaire that is delivered upon initiation of services. It will not 'hurt' for you to complete this now (most of the requests above are located on the intake packet that is attached). - I am filling this out next, and will send under separate cover. I just got back from an infusion at a center downtown.
4. I asked your rep for the specific requirements to request a PA for his insurance type. She was unsure of specifics but provided me with a general PA request document that I had my auth specialist use. Once I have your packet returned, I will have her submit and we will await on the insurance reply.

I know you are eager to start his assessment. I apologize for this lengthy delay. I am diligently working on squaring all of this away to get Jack taken care of.

Your patience has not gone unnoticed and is appreciated.

Thank you for all you have done to help, and to accelerate the process. The incredibly frustrating part is that it took many years to get Jack diagnosed appropriately - which has nothing to do with this situation - that is where some of my anxiousness is stemming from - plus I know Jack REALLY NEEDS some help right now in ways that he is not getting it.

You are appreciated.

RaShai,

I cannot remember if I mentioned this or not, but Jack has started going by they/them. So I will say that Jack/they are with me this week until Friday, then they go to their mother's house for a week - we typically switch on Fridays. In the past, his mother had me take care of Jack on her weeks as well, for homeschooling, during the days of her weeks.

At this moment in time, however, while she is not working, Jack is spending a full week at her house as well - we alternate weeks.

Jack will go to her house on Friday for a week, then will be back with me for a week. I am looking for someone to professionally recommend consistent coparenting with a plan for both of us - we (Jack's mother and me) both need guidance with regard to how to handle many behaviors that we struggle with having a consistent solution for.

John

I am divorced. Jack spends 50% of the time with me and 50% with my ex-wife - generally though - a lot more time with me than 50% based on many circumstances. My preferred method of contact is via email or via text. My phone # is 502.956.0052 (John Fouts - Jack's dad).

For me, in-person would be great - I think that is the best way to get an accurate assessment.

My ex-wife's email address is lindsayfoutscpa@gmail.com, and her phone number is 502.475.6896 so you can reach her to ask her.

Do you do two separate assessments for a situation involving divorce? Or only one assessment? If only one assessment, then you will only need to schedule with me. My ex-wife is aware, of course, that I am trying to get Jack set up for ABA therapy, but she handles very little of his medical care (although in the past year, she has started to handle a little more).

Thank you for the resources and references. I will pass these along to my ex-wife as well. We have a 50/50 split custody arrangement. Jack is with me one week, then with her one week, etc... we switch on Friday evenings.

My address is: 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204

Her address is: 13018 Observation Circle, Apt. 302, Louisville KY 40243

I've requested a written rx from the neuropsychiatrist that wrote the recommendations for Jack for Autism Spectrum Disorder. I also requested one from his PCP as I thought she might be able to handle it more quickly, but I don't know if she can write such a rx.

Can we go on and start the process while we are waiting?

a. Excerpt from title "Where is the evidence? A Narrative Literature Review of the Treatment Modalities for Autism Spectrum Disorders that is attached:

i. "ABA is used to reduce any interfering maladaptive behavior, to increase and reinforce desirable adaptive behaviors, teach new skills, and generalize behaviors to new situations and environments. The theory behind using ABA is that children with autism have difficulty in learning through imitation and listening as their normal peers do. The highly structured format seems to meet the needs of those who have autism and who typically respond to directness and routine. The techniques can be used in different types of situations such as natural everyday situations (e.g., during mealtime at home or play), structured situations (e.g., formal instruction in a classroom setting), and in 1-to-1 as well as group instruction setting."

b. Autism Speaks (organization) has great explanations and information on their website. Here is a link to their website that discusses ABA therapy, the types of skills that the science can be used to improve (social, emotional, etc.) https://www.autismspeaks.org/applied-behavior-analysis

c.

2. OT PT etc. typically pair well with ABA therapy. We do not currently offer those services in Kentucky.

RaShai (how do you say your name - I'm sorry - I should probably be able to figure it out - but I am super tired and in pain at the moment).

The one report shows the autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and adhd (re-establishing dx that already existed for adhd).

I also attached Jack's report that shows auditory processing disorder.

I am trying to get OT, PT, and Speech Therapy along with a Speech and Language Processing Evaluation in place. Jack is having really bad carpal-tunnel-like pain in both wrists and a lot of neck pain, and needs PT. The OT is more for the autism stuff and the speech stuff is for everything.

I will write to Jack's doctor next about getting a specific rx for ABA therapy. See the recommendations, in the report, however, for ABA therapy as well.

John

p.s. My ex-wife is not so sure about ABA therapy - she thinks it might be 'whipping a child into a form that is not okay' in her own words - but she heard that from a different parent who had a bad experience. Is there any scientific evidence/support that I can send to her with regard to utilizing ABA therapy for Autism? Our son is very sensitive, gender-fluid, and I understand her concerns - but we need to be able to provide structured consistent discipline as well and help him with regulation of emotions, and understand what people's tones mean and facial expressions, and work with emotional and social development. He is home-schooled too now which I fear may be putting him further behind in some ways, but much better in other ways - his teachers did not understand his chronic health problems nor his apd or adhd or autism despite having a 504 plan in place (that was not adhered to by the school).

Please confirm receipt of this email with the attachments.

Hi John -

Thanks for your call. The diagnostic report will be needed as well as a prescription for ABA therapy. If you do not have one, you can contact his doctor and they can fax it to us at: 502-297-0289

The documents that I will need:

1. A copy of the insurance card (front and back)

2. A copy of the diagnostic report that provides the autism diagnosis.

3. A prescription for ABA therapy.

4. If applicable - A copy (front and back) of the insurance card for any other insurances that your child is covered by.

Once I have these documents, we can contact Humana to begin the process.

Thank you for the resources and references. I will pass these along to my ex-wife as well. We have a 50/50 split custody arrangement. Jack is with me one week, then with her one week, etc... we switch on Friday evenings.

My address is: 2321 Glenmary Ave. Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40204
Her address is: 13018 Observation Circle, Apt. 302, Louisville KY 40243

I've requested a written rx from the neuropsychiatrist that wrote the recommendations for Jack for Autism Spectrum Disorder. I also requested one from his PCP as I thought she might be able to handle it more quickly, but I don't know if she can write such a rx.

Can we go on and start the process while we are waiting?

RaShai (how do you say your name - I'm sorry - I should probably be able to figure it out - but I am super tired and in pain at the moment).

The one report shows the autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and adhd (re-establishing dx that already existed for adhd).

I also attached Jack's report that shows auditory processing disorder.

I am trying to get OT, PT, and Speech Therapy along with a Speech and Language Processing Evaluation in place. Jack is having really bad carpal-tunnel-like pain in both wrists and a lot of neck pain, and needs PT. The OT is more for the autism stuff and the speech stuff is for everything.

I will write to Jack's doctor next about getting a specific rx for ABA therapy. See the recommendations, in the report, however, for ABA therapy as well.

John

p.s. My ex-wife is not so sure about ABA therapy - she thinks it might be 'whipping a child into a form that is not okay' in her own words - but she heard that from a different parent who had a bad experience. Is there any scientific evidence/support that I can send to her with regard to utilizing ABA therapy for Autism? Our son is very sensitive, gender-fluid, and I understand her concerns - but we need to be able to provide structured consistent discipline as well and help him with regulation of emotions, and understand what people's tones mean and facial expressions, and work with emotional and social development. He is home-schooled too now which I fear may be putting him further behind in some ways, but much better in other ways - his teachers did not understand his chronic health problems nor his apd or adhd or autism despite having a 504 plan in place (that was not adhered to by the school).

Please confirm receipt of this email with the attachments.

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

HI John
Yes I can be there by 12:30? Want meet at Nopal?
You have been there of her and that is the best thing you can do for your daughter.

Let me know
Susan

Susan,

I wanted to touch base about the Thursday schedule with you. Tomorrow (4/26/2023) Wednesday, is Jackie's b-day. When we talked, I know you said you could take Jackie out for a meal for a bday treat on Thursday. I didn't know if you might be able to come a little earlier so Jackie could have lunch before 1:30 on Thursday (4/27/2023)? And you had asked me about places that Jackie likes. El Nopal is one of Jackie's favorites - and there is one of those right in Shepherdsville nearby to where we live. The lunch prices are also very reasonable there, and you get a lot of food. Jackie likes getting Chicken Fajitas, or sometimes a burrito and double rice. Either way, Jackie always wants to have a spoon in addition to the fork and knife and the spoon must be asked for separately. Jackie sometimes is assertive and orders for herself, yet, sometimes is totally not.

I'm sorry I did not write to you sooner, but it has been a hella hard week. Lots of appointments and running around and I had my IVIG infusion on Monday - that wore me out for whatever reason....Sunday night Jackie and I both only got about 3 hours of sleep - something is going on with Jackie's circadian rhythm hardcore again...still...July 11 is the soonest they could get us in to do the sleep study....I am assuming this is probably hormone related but I don't know...

Also - question for you - Jackie is starting to develop a mustache - which Jackie obviously - does not want. Shaving with a razor would only encourage faster hair growth.....I don't really know much about waxing other than it takes care of the situation for a longer amount of time. Can you talk to Jackie about that too?

Finally - Jackie has decided on what her full name is going to be whenever we get to changing it. Jaqquelyn (pronounced Jackelyn - 3 syllables) Alana (pronounced like uh-lane-uh) Fouts.

I cannot believe Jackie is going to be 12 tomorrow. I feel both really happy that Jackie has accomplished so much, and also like I have let Jackie down by not being able to do a lot of things - but that has been beyond my control...

Hi John
Tomorrow I am going to the dentist at 1pm for a crown which shouldn't take long and then I can come on to your house. If its a nice day we could meet at the zoo for a few hours because I have a membership now and can take guests. Or just let me come to your house. I can stay longer because I don't have to race home at 3:30 Let me know!

I think the park would be better for Jackie - because Jackie might be intimidated about being around lots of other people (potentially) - so - I will text you after we leave my appointment then?

Susan,

I have an appt that was scheduled yesterday, for tomorrow (Thursday) at 1:00pm downtown at U of L. It is with my rheumatologist - and I am not certain how long the appointment is going to take. Do you want me to text you when it is done? Would you want to meet at Cherokee Park or something (supposed to be a nice day)...would you want to meet at the doctor office to meet with Jackie?

I'd really like it if we can find time for you to talk with Jackie tomorrow - despite the appointment. Jackie's mother checked herself in, inpatient again, at a mental health facility for suicidality....it is Jackie's mom's week this week and I know Jackie feels upset about the situation. I have to also take care of my own needs, however, hence the need to keep my rheumatology appointment as well...

Hello John,
Yes if you would like to meet at the park it's fine. Or, we could meet at Days coffee shop in the highlands. I can treat Jackie to a pastry or something.

Susan,

I have an appt that was scheduled yesterday, for tomorrow (Thursday) at 1:00pm downtown at U of L. It is with my rheumatologist - and I am not certain how long the appointment is going to take. Do you want me to text you when it is done? Would you want to meet at Cherokee Park or something (supposed to be a nice day)...would you want to meet at the doctor office to meet with Jackie?

I'd really like it if we can find time for you to talk with Jackie tomorrow - despite the appointment. Jackie's mother checked herself in, inpatient again, at a mental health facility for suicidality....it is Jackie's mom's week this week and I know Jackie feels upset about the situation. I have to also take care of my own needs, however, hence the need to keep my rheumatology appointment as well...

John

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. It would be good for me of course to meet Jackie and talk with you both. Perhaps we can speak first, just you and I. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. It would be good for me of course to meet Jackie and talk with you both. Perhaps we can speak first, just you and I. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi John,
Im pretty clear about your temporary situation. I will of course be flexible. Yes, Thursday works.
How about 1:30? Or, do you prefer 1? That should give us enough time before family gets home?

Thanks
Susan

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

Hello Mr. Fouts,

I am Susan Mcconnell the BCBA assigned to Jackie. Would you be available next week on Tuesday? I can come earlier in the day or after school at 5:30. It would be good for me of course to meet Jackie and talk with you both. Perhaps we can speak first, just you and I. Jackie's plan will need to be created first and then we will address her programing.
Please let me know if that is convenient for you. Where would you like to meet?
I googled your new address and it looks like your home is right off 65 south.

I hope you are well and we can meet soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Mr. Fouts –

It is with great regret that I must inform you that Dataya has had a change in her schedule. She recently notified me that Jackie's treatment schedule no longer works with her schedule. I did offer alternate options; however, she was not able to accommodate.

Therefore, she will not start, and I am again looking for therapist.

Susan – the BCBA is still slated to start and can offer parent training when she begins.

I am sorry for the inconvenience, and I will keep you posted.

Dr. Reynolds,

Hi. Hope you are doing well.

I wanted to follow up with you to get the ABA therapist's contact information please.

Also - during the week of Thanksgiving - I am certain that we will not be meeting with him/her on Thanksgiving Day itself. What about the Wednesday of Thanksgiving week? Trying to figure out family meal schedule too - I am sure you understand.

Please let me know when you can.

Have a good day and a great week.

Q1 Why do you think The Phoenix would be a good fit for your student?- The Phoenix would be a good fit for Jackie because it seems like the staff and leadership is far more well versed in neuro-divergent children and children dealing with trauma than in other JCPS schools. Also, previously, at Bloom, 504 plan items were being largely ignored - even after being pointed out and going to the Superintendent's office, and this was not okay. It seems like The Phoenix would allow for an exceptional positive transformation for Jackie's educational future.

Q2 Why would your student be successful in a blended (traditional & online) and self-directed learning environment? - Jackie would be successful in a blended-learning environment because we know, historically, that Jackie can succeed with NTI and at an in-school environment when proper resources are provided and proper instruction is given. Jackie would be successful with self-directed learning because interest and buy-in to what any human being learns makes learning less of a task and more of a fun experience.

Q3. What are your student's strengths and challenges - Strengths: Intelligent / Empathetic / Kind / Compassionate / Caring / Creative / Artistic / Assertive / Vocal / Loquacious Weaknesses: Memory challenges / Autism traits / Recall issues / Social and Emotional Cue Recognition and Awareness

Comments - If any of Jackie's information is needed, please reach out to me in terms of Autism Spectrum Disorder Level 2 Diagnosis, Auditory Processing Disorder diagnosis or any other diagnoses that may be necessary for application.

Attachments: 2021-11-10-DWSilks-Sales-Rep-Regions-ADFX-LLC-For-Woo-Commerce-Export-Orders-By-Region-Missy-Updates-Included.xlsx

Linda,

I so wanted to go in today but I woke up feeling like I got slammed by a truck. I should have written to you first-thing, to let you know. I don't know what is wrong with me - but I think I might have some kind of infection - my body doesn't react right though. Could be just super exhausted also from everything going on with Jack - my worry from that alone would be enough...he is still struggling.

Update on DW Silks:
Missy got back to me late last week and said that in California, the state was split with one rep being North of Fresno (including Fresno) and the other rep taking everything South of Fresno. The only way for me to put this together was to look at all zip codes for all counties in California, and divide out by zip code. Most zip codes were able to be split using 92301 as an identifier but there were some misfits on both sides (some North in the South and some South in the North).

In Texas, I had to find a way to split things out also and I was still waiting for more information until earlier this morning - she said one rep had Northeast TX and one had Southwest TX - but that does not give me enough information to be able to split - I need to know where, by DW Silks' definition, that NE and SW start and end in TX.

One Rep takes care of the Caribbean, South America, and Central America - but the country codes are not being used in their database (In DW Silks' db) - so I asked her which countries were being sold into so I did not set up countries that were not relevant. She wrote back a little while ago this morning and asked if it would be helpful if we added 'Country' to their online customer account registration form. I think this absolutely would be beneficial with the way they are starting to look at their data. I haven't yet sent her a response.

One of the other weird things is that all of their orders are listed as on-hold in their database so that is something else I need to resolve. For now, in TX, I told her I set it up so that both reps will receive the whole state. In New Jersey, there is the same situation as is in Texas - don't know where the split between reps occurs. She is working on getting the information for TX and NJ.

I've attached a spreadsheet I put together that shows the items I've needed to work on in order to develop the reports.

I'll be looking at the reports again for them a bit after lunch as Missy provided some information on frequency / interval of reporting now so I will go in and update that.

I will be adding the Caribbean and Canada into the spreadsheet - I am not yet sure how to identify those regions entirely in the most expeditious way - but I will find one.

The way I have the reports set up - because I cannot look at 'completed' orders because they are not marking the orders as complete it would appear, is to pull a list of Year To Date orders. The order date is included on the order report. The way the accounts reports are set up for each rep is I pull a list of YTD accounts that have placed orders with only the account information - so new accounts will show up if a new account places an order.

She told me a little while ago that she wants the reports to be run weekly, and wants to be copied on them. I have her copied on them already and need to schedule the tasks for them to be run.

I have low iron again could be why I feel so tired. Most likely I am going to be receiving Copper infusions - not sure of frequency but I think once every 3 to 4 weeks - I know very little still right now. That doctor will be back in the office again tomorrow and I will have more information then. All I know is I keep having to gasp for air and it is very uncomfortable to feel that way.

I'll be heading to lunch at 1:45 - I did not realize how late it had gotten. I've been going through still trying to clean out iNode items every now and then. We need to update the server software at HostGator - but it fails because there is not enough room. I am going to contact them this afternoon to see about them temporarily increasing the storage until the update can be installed. Will keep you posted on that as well.

Hi Megan.

Of course. I left you a message after you called last week, but I hadn't heard back from you. The only report that I am aware of is from 2017, and involved a charge of child abuse against my ex-wife, and was filed in Colorado. Is that still open?? After 7 years??

I didn't see your email until today.

So you know, my son is now my daughter (male to female transgender). She goes by Jackie and prefers the full name Jaqquelyn. We have not made the official legal name change yet, however, so legally, as of now, still, Jackie is Jack A. Fouts. So when you talk to her, please refer to her as Jackie and use she/her pronouns.

Hi Mr. Fouts –

The therapist's name is Dataya (Duh-tie-yuh).

No, there will be no therapy on Thanksgiving Day. You should expect to have therapy on Wednesday, though.

Email: Dataya.Hooks@springhealthbehavioral.com

Phone: 319.520.5044

Your BCBA will be Susan McConnell. She is still onboarding and I will provide you her contact information when she is complete 😊

Dr. Reynolds,

Hi. Hope you are doing well.

I wanted to follow up with you to get the ABA therapist's contact information please.

Also - during the week of Thanksgiving - I am certain that we will not be meeting with him/her on Thanksgiving Day itself. What about the Wednesday of Thanksgiving week? Trying to figure out family meal schedule too - I am sure you understand.

Please let me know when you can.

Have a good day and a great week.

Susan,

I wanted to touch base about the Thursday schedule with you. Tomorrow (4/26/2023) Wednesday, is Jackie's b-day. When we talked, I know you said you could take Jackie out for a meal for a bday treat on Thursday. I didn't know if you might be able to come a little earlier so Jackie could have lunch before 1:30 on Thursday (4/27/2023)? And you had asked me about places that Jackie likes. El Nopal is one of Jackie's favorites - and there is one of those right in Shepherdsville nearby to where we live. The lunch prices are also very reasonable there, and you get a lot of food. Jackie likes getting Chicken Fajitas, or sometimes a burrito and double rice. Either way, Jackie always wants to have a spoon in addition to the fork and knife and the spoon must be asked for separately. Jackie sometimes is assertive and orders for herself, yet, sometimes is totally not.

I'm sorry I did not write to you sooner, but it has been a hella hard week. Lots of appointments and running around and I had my IVIG infusion on Monday - that wore me out for whatever reason....Sunday night Jackie and I both only got about 3 hours of sleep - something is going on with Jackie's circadian rhythm hardcore again...still...July 11 is the soonest they could get us in to do the sleep study....I am assuming this is probably hormone related but I don't know...

Also - question for you - Jackie is starting to develop a mustache - which Jackie obviously - does not want. Shaving with a razor would only encourage faster hair growth.....I don't really know much about waxing other than it takes care of the situation for a longer amount of time. Can you talk to Jackie about that too?

Finally - Jackie has decided on what her full name is going to be whenever we get to changing it. Jaqquelyn (pronounced Jackelyn - 3 syllables) Alana (pronounced like uh-lane-uh) Fouts.

I cannot believe Jackie is going to be 12 tomorrow. I feel both really happy that Jackie has accomplished so much, and also like I have let Jackie down by not being able to do a lot of things - but that has been beyond my control...

Susan,

I know my parents are somewhat struggling right now - owe for taxes and stuff....but I am sure they will get Jackie some things for bday.....

I am pretty broke but hopefully will sell some more things on ebay before Jackie's bday so I can get Jackie something...I will find a way to get something anyway - or make something...Jackie knows I have no funds for the most part ... and understands that it is what it is....

I did not know if it was part of ABA therapy for Jackie to get something small? I don't know....I'm just trying to make sure Jackie has a good bday (as good as possible under the circumstances).

Susan,

I have an appt that was scheduled yesterday, for tomorrow (Thursday) at 1:00pm downtown at U of L. It is with my rheumatologist - and I am not certain how long the appointment is going to take. Do you want me to text you when it is done? Would you want to meet at Cherokee Park or something (supposed to be a nice day)...would you want to meet at the doctor office to meet with Jackie?

I'd really like it if we can find time for you to talk with Jackie tomorrow - despite the appointment. Jackie's mother checked herself in, inpatient again, at a mental health facility for suicidality....it is Jackie's mom's week this week and I know Jackie feels upset about the situation. I have to also take care of my own needs, however, hence the need to keep my rheumatology appointment as well...

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

John

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

Hi Susan.

Next Tuesday is really crammed already for us with several appointments. Would Thursday work, the19th - or what about Friday, the 20th, if Thursday does not work?

Please note: We are living in my parents' home. We are living in the basement until we are able to find a way to be in our own space again. This is not our home, unless you would like to say that it is our home temporarily.

Please let me know if Thursday or Friday will work. I'm sorry Tuesday is simply too busy of a day already.

I would prefer that you come during the day when my dad and mom are busy at work and teaching respectively.

My dad will not refer to Jackie as Jackie nor use she/her pronouns, and he would request that you call Jackie Jack in front of him....Jackie has to have 2 identities while living here, which of course is not healthy, and because of the autism piece and already the level of dissociation that Jackie experiences - I do not want to encourage or inadvertently facilitate more of those things....Jackie's well-being is the most important thing to me. I have had to make the decision to move in here because I am literally not able to work due to chronic illness at this time. The latest thing to crop up for me is Atrial Fibrillation now.....that is in addition to a large number of other things. Most are attributable to Sjogren's Disease which causes many of the same things as Lupus as one example.....it is lesser known yet more people have it....it is a very strange paradox.

Jackie has Art Therapy on Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. On the 19th and the 20th, that is the only appointment or time slot that cannot be flexible. Jackie gets the most benefit from art therapy of any therapy we have tried. Looking forward to hearing back from you soon.

Susan,

I have not received any message from you. What phone number did you dial? This email (from yesterday at 8:14 p.m.) is the first communication I have received from you, and I had not had a chance to respond yet as I was preparing for my bankruptcy hearing, which wrapped up only a few moments ago. If I had not had TMS therapy earlier today, I may have been able to respond sooner.

I have copied Dr. Reynolds on this correspondence so she is aware that I have returned communication to you with regard to the email you sent last night.

Is the meet and greet in person? Or is it telehealth? Do you want to do the meet and greet with Jackie present? We are living in my parents basement. My sister's oldest child (my nephew) also lives here. My parents both are still working. My mom is a teacher and gets home around 3pm when she comes straight home. My mom is 70, and also takes care of my 93 year old grandmother (her mother) who lives in Sellersburg, IN. My dad is 78, and works in economic development. He has over 40 years of experience in that field. His schedule is fairly flexible, but he is often gone during the hours of a typical workday. My mom has a Ph.D. in Differentiated Education. She has taught in the special needs sector for decades. Several years ago, she received Runner-Up for Teacher of the Year in the state of Indiana. Unfortunately, it often seems like neither parent, has any patience when they come home from work - it has all been exhausted, and Jackie and me often bear the brunt of the lack of patience.

Jackie, on paper, is with me 50% of the time, and with Jackie's mom 50% of the time, however, in reality, it is more like Jackie being with me 85% of the time, and with mom 15% of the time. Jackie harbors feelings of resentment toward me over this, but I cannot control what Jackie's mom chooses to do and not to do. I can only control myself (all that is within my power is to control my own behaviors etc...). We are stuck here in the basement because I became unable to work during the latter part of this year due to ongoing chronic illness. After nearly 14 years...I now finally have a definitive diagnosis of Sjogren's Syndrome (systemic), CRPS, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Gastroparesis, GERD, and several other things...my eyes are greatly affected these days...double vision...blurry vision...loss of vision at times....migraines....etc...I receive IVIG on Mondays usually from 9amish to 3:30pm-ish....I have a nurse that travels to me to administer the IVIG. It is a long infusion and is very taxing on me. I also have to have Copper infusions for Copper replacement every 52 days, although, that may be shrinking in terms of the duration in between each infusion. I need to write to my Hematologist/Oncologist to see.

On 2/22/2022, Jackie began being home-schooled. Jackie was continuously being bullied at school, and the 504 plan was not at all being adhered to, and after 2 meetings with the superintendent and nothing changing, we had to do something to help preserve the remaining confidence that Jackie had. We are working on rebuilding Jackie's confidence. By we, I primarily mean me, and Jackie's therapists.

I do not like the situation that we are in, in the basement, because my dad refuses to accept and acknowledge Jackie as Jackie as opposed to Jack. My dad said he will never call Jackie, Jackie. That means that Jackie has to have 2 identities in the same household. Also, my dad does not want anyone else calling Jackie, Jackie, in his presence, which is very confusing, and makes others not want to call Jackie, Jackie.

In addition, I have overheard my nephew and my dad talking about how wrong it is for people to be transvestites (Jackie is experiencing gender dysphoria, and is not a transvestite), but still hearing things like that is not healthy for Jackie, and the environment is not what I would prefer for it to be. My mom is 'more accepting' of Jackie, but often says mean things and has no self awareness of it. She has many narcissistic tendencies, and they are all things I should expect as I grew up with her as my mother, but still catch me off guard at times.

It is strange though, because she can be as sweet as pie, or as mean as a snake, and you never know which mother you are going to get. Jackie struggles with rage and anger issues at times probably due to the autism, has trouble with impulsivity control due to adhd, and after the long-covid diagnosis, struggles with fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues, etc...I am hoping that Jackie recovers over time. Sjogren's Syndrome can definitely be a genetically passed disease. It is actually called Sjogren's Disease now... I am concerned Jackie may have it - Jackie has gastroparesis, migraine, cluster headaches, cyclical vomiting syndrome, neuropathy, autonomic dysfunction, anxiety, depression, fatigue, shortness of breath, memory issues/brain fog, and it just sounds so close to what I experience, that I am heart-broken that Jackie has to experience the same kinds of things.

Oh back to the custody thing....so we are supposed to have 50/50 split custody, but Jackie is with me, even on Jackie's mom's weeks, from about 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for homeschooling. She basically takes advantage of me and uses me as a babysitter. If I say no to her though, it will only hurt Jackie in the end, and me, because Jackie tells me she is always talking badly about me and saying negative things about me. I cannot confirm nor deny this as I am not there when it is just the 2 of them.

Mondays are not a good day to meet for me as I have to have IV Benadryl with the IVIG and I am just kind of out of it in terms of being sleepy. We have various standing appointments on other days of the week. What does your schedule look like?

I understand if it won't be possible, but I think Jackie was really wanting to see you in person to give it to you (the small gift). I will talk to Jackie and let her know it seems that we need to leave it for you instead of seeing you in person. Thanks Akhilah.

Yes discussing these items over the next 2 / last 2 sessions some would be beneficial (while doing special projects). I get it about the time thing too...I'm in my early 40s and don't have time to do anything and I am not even able to work right now. I don't know if it is because I move very slowly now....or time moves fast...or both....or what....but I get it....

I don't know if 4H has any kind of mentor program too - it is hard because I am looking for something that includes cultural diversity (of all kinds - so exposure to all different ethnicities and cultural backgrounds) - and something that encourages and promotes being outdoors in an urban and a rural environment. Probably is going to take more than one thing to meet all those goals.

I have to focus on housing right now but will keep the mentor thing in my file so that when I am able to get to it I can do so. For right now, it is housing, SSI (to try to get income to help Jackie), looking for gas and clothing vouchers and or vouchers for school supplies for the upcoming school year etc...

As Theresa would say, Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs time...

Helping J to adjust to change I feel is crucial, as it's the only part of life that's constant/ consistent.

Here are some videos that talk about adjusting to change. I can try and provide more resources, but I think with change itself being scary, and consistently differentiating fear from danger, these conversations can be very productive.

Adjusting to change

Fear vs Danger (you may want to look these over first)

2. https://youtu.be/R2FqW7B0Qis (this is a longer podcast)

Maybe we could discuss some of this next time we meet.

amazing. And, honestly, I don't know what I would have done without you to help Jackie at times, so thank you so much....

I contacted Michael Pedigo and left a message. I also contacted Open Doors Counseling Center. I was able to reach the receptionist there named Natalia, and will be sending them our insurance cards and stuff shortly. They have a Lexington number, but they do telehealth at home, so that is great. My fear there, is that my dad especially, does not support transgender rights (at all), and we live in his house, and Jackie may feel too uncomfortable for therapy to have a benefit. I told Jackie though, that I could drive Jackie to the Salt River here or something and give her privacy so she could talk about whatever she wanted to.

Our plan of action, is to get set up at Open Doors Counseling Center to go on and get the letter we need for the Novak PAGE Center, and that from there, we can decide if the new therapy is working out or not and make changes as necessary. Flexibility right?? That is the key to success.....actually....the key to success in all things in life is communication...I feel...

Okay - that all being said....Jackie is going to be there tomorrow night in person with her mom. Jackie wants to do a special project with you and mom together. Then Jackie said on the last session, that Jackie wants to do a special project with you and me together.

I realize this may be unconventional of an ask, but is there any way that Jackie could stay in touch with you after joining the other practice....not for therapy necessarily unless we need to ping something off of you....but as a friend to Jackie basically?? Jackie really does not have any friends, and has had so much transition in life, that Jackie doesn't really feel solid about anything I don't think. It hurts my heart...

Let me know when you can, and thank you again for all.

Subject: Update on Therapy 'Sitch' && Jaqquelyn's wishes for last 2 sessions with you

Akhilah,

A few things. First - thank you for always being so good with Jaqquelyn, and so outreaching, and so helpful, and for all the guidance you have provided and anything I am missing saying there. You are amazing. And, honestly, I don't know what I would have done without you to help Jackie at times, so thank you so much....

I contacted Michael Pedigo and left a message. I also contacted Open Doors Counseling Center. I was able to reach the receptionist there named Natalia, and will be sending them our insurance cards and stuff shortly. They have a Lexington number, but they do telehealth at home, so that is great. My fear there, is that my dad especially, does not support transgender rights (at all), and we live in his house, and Jackie may feel too uncomfortable for therapy to have a benefit. I told Jackie though, that I could drive Jackie to the Salt River here or something and give her privacy so she could talk about whatever she wanted to.

Our plan of action, is to get set up at Open Doors Counseling Center to go on and get the letter we need for the Novak PAGE Center, and that from there, we can decide if the new therapy is working out or not and make changes as necessary. Flexibility right?? That is the key to success.....actually....the key to success in all things in life is communication...I feel...

Okay - that all being said....Jackie is going to be there tomorrow night in person with her mom. Jackie wants to do a special project with you and mom together. Then Jackie said on the last session, that Jackie wants to do a special project with you and me together.

I realize this may be unconventional of an ask, but is there any way that Jackie could stay in touch with you after joining the other practice....not for therapy necessarily unless we need to ping something off of you....but as a friend to Jackie basically?? Jackie really does not have any friends, and has had so much transition in life, that Jackie doesn't really feel solid about anything I don't think. It hurts my heart...

Let me know when you can, and thank you again for all.

John

I asked the Pediatric Endocrinology Department if a letter from art therapy would be okay, and they said that it should be fine if the art therapist is comfortable affirming Jackie's gender identity.

They also provided a listing of mental health professionals that they said do letters for them regularly - but said we would not have to add another therapist on to Jackie's team if a therapist we already had could do the letter for Jackie. I need to start saying Jaqquelyn. I am still getting used to the newer more full name. I have to say, however, that I do really like the way that Jaqquelyn decided to spell it.

Please let me know if you all can do a letter. Because they are able to use puberty blocking agents, and Jackie is beginning to go through puberty, I feel like time is of the essence. If you all are not able to do the letter, please let me know that as well, so I could try to get Jackie an appointment with an additional provider of mental health services.

Thanks Akhilah. I've learned there are spots for 1 to 3 students available in the 7th grade at The Phoenix School and over 200 applicants (for the total school). I don't exactly know the selection process. Thank you so much for filling out the recommendation form for Jackie.

Btw, Jackie has decided on name being

Jaqquelyn Alana Fouts

No formal paperwork changes to name yet but wanted you to know.

- Two (2) references, the third is optional -

  - What is needed is the name, email address and phone number of a staff member (counselor, teacher, administrator) in your student's current school.
  - They can be a current or previous staff member.
  - They do NOT have to write a recommendation letter.
  - The Phoenix will contact the person making the recommendation and explain what we need.
  - Home-schooled students
    - If your student has been home-schooled for less than one (1) year, enter recommendation information from previous school.
    - If home-schooled for more than one (1) year, provide contact information from community member, mental health counselor, behavior coach, social worker, etc.

Actually, it says the Phoenix School will contact you and let you know what they need, so I guess in that case, I will just give them your L.E.T. contact information, but this way you will have a heads up.

Akhilah - Lindsay is being released from the Brook today. She seems like she is doing much better when I spoke to her on the phone.

Jackie was asking me, early in the week, Friday night, to take her to the mental hospital for her own mental health crisis issues. I was unable to take her because of my profound fatigue. I cannot get my doctors to help me with that issue any further. But that is a whole other story...

Jackie says that she only feels like therapy is good when she sees you in person. I asked her what she wanted to do, and she said she wanted to see you in person tonight. I also texted Lindsay's phone as a reminder, so she will see the message when she is out of the hospital.

Honestly - I don't know if things 'will' smoothen out a bit anytime soon. It has been ongoing like this for well over a year.....

Subject: Need telehealth tonight plz

I'm too tired to bring Jackie.

Also, fyi, Jackie's mom checked in The Brook again yesterday.

She did not give us her number or anything. Do you know how that works in terms of trying to reach someone? Jackie wants to talk to her mommy.

Also, do you know what this new ridic bill banning transgender rights in KY is all about? It has me concerned.

Also, I heard Stacy from 7 County Svcs was able to connect with you, so thought that was good.

Talk to you a bit tonite.

John

P.s. Jackie is very tired but looking forward to talking to you.

I think I reached out to them before and they did not have a group for Jackie's age. I left them a message - I'll let you know what they say. I want to say that before they told me that they did not have a group for Jackie's age group - but I don't remember. I called them a few minutes ago but had to leave a voicemail.

Akhilah - I am having A LOT of trouble getting Jackie to have any hygiene at all....I try to make sure that at a BARE MINIMUM Jackie changes underwear each day - but even that causes Jackie to be VERY ANGRY with me and when Jackie is VERY ANGRY it scares me because of some of what happened in the past...

The attached images are from when Jackie hurt me in August of last year....it wasn't cool Akhilah....you know?

If I ever bring it up Jackie says she doesn't want to talk about it - and I understand that - but Jackie still has blinding rage anger sometimes for things like me asking Jackie to put on clean underwear...and I don't know how to get Jackie to be less angry and to also have hygiene.

Jackie also doesn't like to brush teeth or brush hair....and sometimes doesn't shower - refuses showering or bathing for WEEKS at a time....what can you do to help??

Also the anxiety piece seems much worse instead of better as far as being scared in the house goes - even being in the next room can be a major issue....

Anyway - please let me know about what we can do to help Jackie.

Also - if you know of any hormone doctors in the state that would be great - I am trying to get Jackie in to see a pediatric endocrinologist to discuss many things...

Finally - still looking for an autism group that accepts insurance or Jackie's age or transgender autistic children. They are not easy to find....

Last thing - I brought a barrel stave piece of art to an art show in January - and I have not been able to go back and get it from the Portland office. If you happen to see it, could you grab it and bring it to the Frankfort Ave office so the next time I am there I can get it? I don't have hardly any gas and everything must be rationed or I would not even be asking you. Anyway it is a barrel stave with a landscape painted on one side...mainly blue and green with some trees.....

Yes Akhilah, virtual is fine. Jackie prefers in person, but of course, we understand if you are not feeling well - and honestly, I am not feeling that great either! But my body never acts like normal peoples' when sick due to autoimmune issues! My mom has some kind of really bad bacterial sinus infection (not related to COVID or the flu or rsv or one I am forgetting?)...anyway - hopefully you recover quickliy!!

We will see you (online) tomorrow night.

I do want to let you know that we will have to be virtual for tomorrow 3/16, as I have a slight cold/allergy situation that would keep me from being in person this week.

Thank you Akhilah. It is so kind of you to summarize this so neatly. I am always impressed with your therapy skills. I was worried when Dani left, but you and Jackie, I think, mesh very well together.

A few of my thoughts.....first environmentally....

Things have been hard here. My mom and dad have both acted very strangely. Like I used a coffee cup to have a drink (because I don't have any cups here and nowhere to put any cups - because we are not allowed to use most things here).....As an example, they allocated 1 drawer in a dresser in the basement to us....all of the shelves are full with books already in the basement (we live in the basement).....anyway - I used a coffee cup and they got upset about it.....then.....my dad ate some of the bacon that I had in the fridge that was pre-cooked - but I cannot afford to buy more....He got upset when I just asked him about it....and said...well....it wasn't on your shelf...so I ate it....and was very angry with me about just asking him about it....I don't understand it .....then my mom came down and said.....you all didn't use any towels did you??? very accusatory-like.....and we hadn't.....so I said ... no.... she was very angry about that.....when they came back from a trip...I had moved a dry erase board....because I tripped and almost fell down the stairs a couple of times - because it was sticking out around the stairs...I moved the dry erase board....when they came back from their trip...my mom said...you didn't move that dry erase board...did you?? I said yes because I almost fell down the stairs a couple of times...she said she uses it every month for Delta Kappa Gamma (she is the President of that in Kentucky). I told her where I put it and told her I'd bring it to her....upstairs....the board....had not had anything on it....since the 1990s when I was in college.....it is very frustrating.....then tonight my mom was upset that we used her stove to cook dinner (a frozen pizza)....we don't have any way to cook downstairs...over the weekend she was upset that we used one of her pans.....it is a terrible environment....there are good things too....but these things are just not normal things....you know? It is very upsetting to me, and I know that it is to Jackie as well...it makes Jackie feel 'unstable'...and causes me much distress and anxiety...and frustration that I have been unable to change the situation yet as I know it is impacting both me and Jackie adversely.

Next - about the knife at school thoughts....I think this is probably related to Jackie being bullied so much.....did I ever send you the reports that I made to the superintendent with regard to that subject matter? Would that context be helpful in any way?

Finally, Jackie plays a game called A Hat In Time (AHIT). There are some scenes in it that I think may be impacting Jackie - when Jackie talks about worrying about being stabbed e.g. Most of the game is not violent - but parts of it are suggestively violent (many video games are unfortunately). Look at this video, please, if time, and let me know your thoughts whenever you might have a chance. Here is a link to one of the boss fights that has a knife involved....

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ORr4EAQTsQQ

Start watching at 1:20 or so above...you will see what I mean...you don't need to watch the whole video...and totally understand if you don't have time to do that....

Thanks again for helping Jackie....I feel blessed that you are part of Jackie's team.

What was discussed:

- Feelings Wheel Check in (at beginning and end of session)
- Clients treatment plan goals
- Goals J and Dad came up with outside of session
- Wanting to get to know J one on one
- J Book of Activities
- Session Structure
- Catastrophic language (ex: you want me to die, you drink 9 bottles a day) as brought up last week's session as a parent concern

Activities:

- Client was given a laminated daily task sheet, to break goals into smaller tasks
- Client led a drawing activity

See you next session.

I agree with all Akhilah - the thing is - Jackie's mother will not communicate at all about those items unless Jackie is there. It is, in my opinion, very manipulative...whether intentional or unintentional - but I agree with you as well that that should be a definite boundary. Thanks for all you do and Theresa thank you also. I honestly just want Jackie to be the best version of Jackie that Jackie can be. Thanks for all.

> I agree, it could be beneficial to seek psychological services for J as you mentioned to address ongoing fears. I do want to say, after our last session I have some thoughts about J's fears. I have noticed a few times things being discussed in front of J regarding custody, as well as financial struggles. This has happened a few times, but I haven't addressed it in depth until our last session this past Thursday. I know you mentioned some of these challenges/difficulties being worse than previously, and I also notice J being included in a lot of these discussions.
> Although I am not a psychologist, I do think these issues being discussed in front of J could potentially exacerbate some of her fears and partly contribute to some of her insecurities as well as some of J's catastrophic language. I know you are doing all you can for J, so I am by no means taking away from all you provide. You are awesome at being a proactive parent, kudos :) I also know, we are still getting to know each other, but just wanted to provide some of my observations/feedback.
> Given that our initial sessions have been mainly about developing rapport, as discussed I want to be more intentional with our sessions and stick to a weekly structure. I feel it important to bring up boundaries each session, and I believe this is a boundary (discussing financial/ adult family matters in front of J) that needs to be revisited/ reinforced as a piece to the puzzle in J's self regulation. I will continue to do feelings work with J via expressive arts mediums, I just wanted to be sure we are able to address boundaries a bit more each time we meet. I will shoot you a separate follow up email from last weeks session.

No - we wanted to get on-going psychological services through there - or possibly a reassessment - but do not want to jeopardize current SSI/SSDI claim for Jackie that has been in-progress for months -- so most likely no 'reassessment' at this time. Wanted a place that Jackie could go to talk with a licensed psychologist about the needs that Jackie has that may not be getting addressed with all existing resources now in place...(although I think the vast majority of needs are covered at this time). Meridian no longer accepts Medicaid, and we were told that Dr. Charles could not help us period going forward (verbally on phone by Meridian staff). Happy to discuss if need be on phone or in person or at session for Jackie in brief. Ongoing anxiety and irrational fears continue to be a major source of conflict. I need to be able to go to the bathroom e.g. without Jackie in the room with me...Jackie used to be able to handle that fine - not sure what happened or why....those are the kinds of things we were thinking maybe a psychologist could help with potentially.

Thx for the updates. Since I had to ask so many times over so many months just to get the passport form signed, I already know she would be unlikely to sign anything else without an extreme amount of effort on my end. The thing is...right now...even though she is basically taking advantage of me as a person, she could say she never agreed to the way things are and could try to take Jackie. I do not trust her...at all...for various reasons.

I agree Jackie's sessions are in need of having safe space preserved.

Lindsay has stated many times before that she will see someone, but then has not followed through. I hope she is able to get the help she needs this time. I'm glad she is okay, for Jackie.

Enjoy your weekend!

Also, I want to see you all successfully address the custody issues/other concerns, and to be sure and keep it seperate from JaF's sessions to keep that boundary. I will consult some of my colleagues and get back with you with what they might come up with. I do know that it could be possible to write something up, and have you all sign, date, and notarize it. This is something we did in our family, when we were going through some custody issues, but I can see what other options might be available if I am able to find anything. Otherwise, I believe mom getting the help she needs may play a big part in some of the communication issues that are happening, and seeing things a little more clearly with regards to finding what is best for JaF and all parties involved.

Yesterday evening, Lindsay told me that her sister was going to come to be with her today. That gave me somewhat of a sense of relief. Did you talk to her today? Was she safe?

Subject: Re: Session follow up from 2/9/2023

Thank you Akhilah. I feel like it is impossible to work with Jackie's mom. I do empathize with her for the feelings of suicidal ideation and anxiety and depression, however, I also am trying to maintain boundaries and not be a doormat - which is how she treated me for the vast majority of our entire marriage.

It is not okay to expect me to provide all meals and all educational resources, and all child care during her weeks, for nothing. If I were rich, I would be totally okay with it - but I have $0 in income - and I have to scrape to get gas money or food these days - and she is working - and just takes advantage of me.

The thing is...if I try to do or say anything, then she either talks badly about me to Jackie - or directly badly talks to me in front of Jackie.

When I mentioned the custody thing in session, it was to see if she was receptive as she seemed receptive (at least responded to) an email about it....although she just said...'received'. When I brought it up, when you were not in the room, she said that she had been really suicidal and struggling for a year, and said it was because of me....and I was thinking what?? I am not married to you or anything....then she kept saying that Jackie needs to just go back to public school and that would solve all the problems.....but that isn't true at all....Jackie is homeschooled for a reason....she said her only concern was Jackie going to the bathroom...and later said maybe getting bullied.....but I (John) have other concerns....like tardy notes and absent notes not being properly recorded by JCPS staff, bullying, not being allowed to go to the bathroom, being made fun of (and teachers being okay with it) because Jackie has trouble wearing shoes, Jackie not being allowed to self-regulate temperature due to dysautonomia issues...., Jackie not being given time and a half for exams, Jackie not receiving the proper instruction and time for one on one work that Jackie deserves, Jackie's auditory processing disorder not being considered whatsoever - no accommodations in the 504 plan being adhered to etc..

Then Lindsay said that she is fearful that Jackie is falling greatly behind because I am homeschooling Jackie. I just had to bite my tongue Akhilah.....that's all I can say...

Anyway - she also said that she tried to overdose on Sunday, and that she was disappointed when she woke up on Monday....Jackie was with her I think on that night/day....I would have to check to be sure...but that would be so traumatic that I cannot even imagine what would happen with Jackie.

How can we help make sure that Lindsay gets the help that she needs?

I also need to have boundaries and have the custody agreement accurately reflect what is going on. When we went to marriage counseling before, Lindsay would not ever do any of the things the therapist recommended or suggested, so it was a waste of time....she would not even go if brought up - I am sure...to a family therapist....I am thinking at this point that I just need to do the legal paperwork and submit it to the judge.

The thing is, it requires both signatures…unless there are special circumstances….by the way….Jackie is doing fine grade level wise and is ahead in several areas, and catching up in those areas that JCPS failed to work with Jackie on.

I also think Jackie is doing an outstanding job of participating well in therapy! I don't know if Jackie would be doing so well if it were not for the great atmosphere and great workers/therapists at L.E.T. Thanks for being there for Jackie and for doing all that you do!

I have been to several therapy practices and it seems like you all are more qualified and far better at what you do, and I want to appreciate and give gratitude for that.

Seven counties Therapist hasn't returned my call yet, will be reaching back out Friday morning/ afternoon 2/10/2023.

Activities:
- "City Reflection" Drawing
- Kolor Kollides (JaF's feelings game)
- JaF will Choose Activity from the "JaF Book" (which will be filled with fun activities pertaining to JaF's goals, some of which JaF will come up with to be added)
- Feelings Wheel:

for crisis info/ resources that can be of help when experiencing stress/anxiety, depression, hopelessness, or just being overwhelmed. Let me know how else I can be of support! 👄

I will be following up with mom Sunday around noon.

I will speak with Em and T to see what resources they have as well, but I would strongly encourage at least doing MFT once or twice to work through some of the concerning issues brought up tonight. Will look up all the free sources available for working out custody, etc. as well.

I applaud you for staying persistent in doing all the things needs to supper JaF. Keep pushing, dad! 💪🏽 💥 I know it's a struggle, but you are doing all the things you can. I know as a parent it doesn't always feel like it, but you are doing amazing.

It is Jackie's mom's week. I wanted to touch base. Had you heard from her at all?

Also Susan the ABA told us you got to meet with her yesterday on the phone. Did that seem to go well?

Last for now, Jackie wants me to come to art therapy too tonight. Since it is mom's week, I didn't know what your thoughts on that might be?

I want to be there for Jackie in the best ways.

Hi Akhilah - just quick touching base...

Yeah all those questions regarding Jackie's mom still are in question...I need a therapist or someone to talk to her about some of them...I have no income now...I have put together a basic worksheet showing how things flow - I don't really care to share it with my ex-wife as it won't make a difference - but do want to give you an idea of expenses....

I have provided to kynect.gov but I don't think it is going to make a difference....$23 per month for snap is not enough for food for the 2 of us - I CAN tell you that.... also I think it is of the utmost importance to get the custody agreement to reflect accurately the true nature of custody...

Otherwise...even though she (ex-wife) is of that mindset that it is my duty to provide school and childcare and meals for Jackie on her weeks during the work days from 7:30 am to 5pm....she could say that 'I' was not adhering to the custody agreement and then could get full custody of Jackie....in a very manipulative sort of way...and I do not trust her.... so I am wanting to get all the ducks in a row in terms of accurate custody on paper....

Also - I wanted to ask you if you knew how I can get a copy of Jackie's social security card....I can't find out how to do that??

And also - to see the status of the disability case I filed for Jackie?? I cannot see that either...??

Can you help with any of those things?? See attachment.

The true cost is more than what is listed even because I forgot to include homeschooling costs associated with printing documents at home - printer ink - printer paper - school supplies - clothing - etc... haircuts - Jackie needs a haircut....etc....

Akhilah - please see email thread below (start at bottom and read up). Jackie's mom won't communicate with me, and continues to offer nothing in terms of offsetting her share of expenses on her weeks with regard to childcare, school expenses, or food on her weeks. I also noted that we need to have the custody agreement updated to reflect the accuracy of the situation - all she wrote was 'received'. Since she is going to be there tonight, I thought you might be able to get more than one word out of her. I know you'd mentioned that you were going to reach out to her sometime this week.

Also - just to fill you in - with regard to Seven County Services, the new therapist, Beatrice (maybe Beatriz) Ortiz, was very reluctant to even see Jackie for a session - she said there would not be a way to not have overlap and therefore no way to get Medicaid to pay both bills. I was like but wait why was it possible for the last year and a half (she of course did not have an answer). It seemed like she was very strongly opposed to continuing to see Jackie but I feel that Jackie definitely needs more than just the one art therapy session each week. If you have any ideas, I'd be all ears.

There are some other things going on in the background too - but these are the current priorities.

John

* I need you to provide money for Jackie for food when I have Jackie on your weeks as food is not free...

---

* I need you to provide money for childcare for the hours outside of school hours that Jackie is with me on your weeks...

This has all been talked about before, but I have not received anything from you with regard to these expenses.

I'd like us to be able to work this out on our own, and it may still also be a good idea to get an amendment into the divorce agreement.

Also the written custody arrangement says 50/50, but that is not accurate, because I have Jackie 7:30 to 5:00 on your workdays, and I also have Jackie on school holidays when you may not be off work. We need to update the custody agreement to reflect accurately, in reality, what the custody looks like. We can always revise it again if or when things change again (like if you are able to work at home and have Jackie do school at home while you are working remotely or something). But we need to make sure it is accurate.

Jackie has said in the past, that you complained about when I write anything to you, or that you completely ignore it (but I am not there when it is just you two - so I do not know what conversations occur) - anyway - I'd like it please, if you did not bring Jackie into the conversation of the financial piece and also if you do not say anything negative to Jackie about me.

Please write back to let me know you have received this. I am hopeful that by this coming Friday, we can have this all worked out.

I hope you and Jackie are having a good day. I am having a very rough day - feeling very ill.

FYI, I can send take home activities you all are welcome to try/utilize with this chart. These would be things pertaining to J's over all goals/tasks, which we can touch on during session as well.

FW:
Good morning! I sent a text, but I am sure you are busy during this time of day. I wanted to shoot this your way, as it pertains to J's goals/tasks. You may or may not feel this is a good fit, and maybe some of this will be discussed with the Behavioral Therapist, but here is it is just in case.

Task Sheet for J (CLICK HERE):
Instructions - you can print off this task sheet each week, or have it laminated so that you can check things off daily with dry erase marker. It contains two pages, so that if you print it off it can be printed front and back.
- You can receive a check mark for completing each task listed in the far left column.
- For each check mark you receive, you also gets to fill in a line on the right side
- As you progress upward (on the thermometer on the right), you eventually reach the goal at the top!
- Once you reach the goal, you can receive a small treat for the week!

Note: Before beginning the tasks, at the beginning of the week, discuss what the treat will be at the end of the week, and you can even print out a picture of it to put on the refrigerator, or hang on wall in room. Or, you can but something small, wrap/decorate it, and have it be a surprise!

No worries if you don't want to use this, or if you already have something else you'd rather use instead. This is simply a suggestion based off the tasks you mentioned in the last email. Let me know your thoughts, and if you think this would be a good idea for her!

Goals:

For Jackie to not feel as scared to go places in the house on Jackie's own.

To be able to give mommy and daddy both privacy when they are using the bathroom.

To be able to go to the bathroom without mommy and daddy needing to be right there.

To reduce fear of Slenderman.

To reduce fear of Pennywise.

To reduce fear of mirrors in general.

To be able to enjoy trees without thinking bad things will happen - this is related to Slenderman too.

For Jackie to be able to understand and accept the word No.

To work toward Jackie sleeping in Jackie's own room - because then Jackie and parents at each of their respective houses will get better rest.

For Jackie to have more structure, start doing chores again, and earn allowances or other incentives.

I love all of the dissociation materials you sent. If there is a way to have a dissociation workbook or worksheets to work on with Jackie, I think that Jackie could benefit from understanding Jackie's own dissociation more from an internal perspective. Is that something that can be covered at therapy with Jackie?

Hey Akhilah - I think I spelled your name wrong last time I wrote to you - I'm so sorry about that! I hate when people spell my name Jon....was an accident - please accept my apologies...

Thanks for sending the goal chart - I think that is a great visual and starting point. I would like to make some edits though, if you think it is okay, and I have a question about how to handle the non-adherence to use of such tools when Jackie is not with me.

I would have a better opportunity to talk a bit later this afternoon. I can try to text you when I have a few free minutes. I am dealing with some things I am having to prioritize right now.

Akhilah - take home activities are good - I incorporated the feelings chart into school today. As Jackie stated, last week at Mommy's house it wasn't discussed. I don't know how to improve the consistency for Jackie. I wish there were a more cohesive co-parenting situation. I understand some things are simply beyond what I am able to accommodate for Jackie - and all I can do is the best that I can do for Jackie when Jackie is with me.

Task Sheet for J (CLICK HERE):
Instructions - you can print off this task sheet each week, or have it laminated so that you can check things off daily with dry erase marker. It contains two pages, so that if you print it off it can be printed front and back.
- You can receive a check mark for completing each task listed in the far left column.
- For each check mark you receive, you also gets to fill in a line on the right side
- As you progress upward (on the thermometer on the right), you eventually reach the goal at the top!
- Once you reach the goal, you can receive a small treat for the week!

Note: Before beginning the tasks, at the beginning of the week, discuss what the treat will be at the end of the week, and you can even print out a picture of it to put on the refrigerator, or hang on wall in room. Or, you can but something small, wrap/decorate it, and have it be a surprise!

No worries if you don't want to use this, or if you already have something else you'd rather use instead. This is simply a suggestion based off the tasks you mentioned in the last email. Let me know your thoughts, and if you think this would be a good idea for her!

Just to throw some of the things out there.....

Goals:

For Jackie to not feel as scared to go places in the house on Jackie's own.

To be able to give mommy and daddy both privacy when they are using the bathroom.

To be able to go to the bathroom without mommy and daddy needing to be right there.

To reduce fear of Slenderman.

To reduce fear of Pennywise.

To reduce fear of mirrors in general.

To be able to enjoy trees without thinking bad things will happen - this is related to Slenderman too.

For Jackie to be able to understand and accept the word No.

To work toward Jackie sleeping in Jackie's own room - because then Jackie and parents at each of their respective houses will get better rest.

For Jackie to have more structure, start doing chores again, and earn allowances or other incentives.

email per your request. I will have a paper copy for you also at our next session, and have cc'd Em so that she is in the loop.

I do want to mention, the diagnosis mentioned in this treatment plan are not based on any assessments on my end. Also, I do think it would be beneficial to speak with the other therapists involved after completing the ROI form properly, but it is definitely not mandatory. I see that an ROI has been completed on your end on 1/17/23, but is missing some info as to whom permission is given and for what.

We can use the plan we have in place (attached), and it wouldn't really have anything to do with the other therapies J is involved in. I made the goals and objectives simple to leave room for other work to be done with J's other therapists. I don't want to overwhelm her, nor overlap with other work she may be doing.

If the ROI's aren't completed, I am unable to speak to any of J's other therapists, or any other parties via call, text or email regarding J's treatment as it would be a violation of their privacy.

We can discuss this further on Thursday when we meet, but wanted to be clear about the treatment as it stands.

See you all Thursday!

Let me know if you have any questions.

My eyes have been bothering me a great deal this week, and I have had a lot of trouble seeing....so looking at screens is hard for me for whatever reason - well - because of Sjogren's Disease - I know the reason...

This week was supposed to be the first week that Jackie met with the new 7 County Services therapist, but she canceled last minute due to having car trouble... I am not sure we want Jackie to continue going to 7 County Services. I am still trying to get Jackie in to see Meridian Behavioral Health (from a psychologist perspective). I need to follow up on that again today.

I will review the plan as my eyes allow. I am going to see about adding some things too that we can talk about. There have been some things that Jackie has come up with that are good of course because they are needs that are seen by Jackie, and also some things that I need to have added as goals.

Thank you for making the updates that you have made.

We will see you tonight.

John

p.s. The ABA Therapist is coming here to meet with us for the first time from 1:30pm to 3:30pm.

I see that an ROI has been completed on your end on 1/17/23, but is missing some info as to whom permission is given and for what.

done with J's other therapists. I don't want to overwhelm her, nor overlap with other work she may be doing.

If the ROI's aren't completed, I am unable to speak to any of J's other therapists, or any other parties via call, text or email regarding J's treatment as it would be a violation of their privacy.

We can discuss this further on Thursday when we meet, but wanted to be clear about the treatment as it stands.

See you all Thursday!

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks Akhilah. I will send the neuropsych evaluation to you when I am at my laptop. I feel like a grandpa or something…my eyes suck and I can barely see the letters on my phone. It will show the adhd, autism, etc…

Hey, John! Thanks for reaching out.

There isn't a treatment plan in our system entered by Dani, as I'd look upon transitioning to myself, nor did she state having done one. Which is why I'd suggested creating one. I also didn't see a diagnosis entered into our system. After speaking with you all and you verbally giving me a diagnosis, and after looking through the notes in our system, I entered a diagnosis on December 2 of the following (also, one had to be created in order to bill for insurance):

Diagnosis:
F43.22 - Adjustment disorder with anxiety

Diagnosis:
H93.25 - Central auditory processing disorder

Two more diagnosis that have surfaced since Dec. second include the following (via you emailing/verbalizing):
ADHD and Autism Spectrum Disorder

I asked Dani today, and she told me that Theresa (who was her site supervisor) had created a treatment plan for JF. I have included her in this email to see if there is one in a hard copy file somewhere, as I have mentioned there isn't one in Simple Practice right now (again, which is why I was creating one).

Once we have a treatment plan, whether it is one Theresa has created or if we collaborate on one together, I do want to be clear about boundaries so that we are able to work effectively! :)

I will send a separate email so that we can begin that discussion. I want to support J in the most effective way possible, and I know working together we can totally achieve that!

Hi Akhilah.

Beatriz is Jackie's other therapist (non-art-therapist) at Seven County Services. Jackie used to see Lindsey Smith there, but Lindsey has moved on and taken a different position.

I was able to meet with Beatriz today, and she said because of Medicaid rules, you each are not allowed to work on a treatment plan with any kind of overlap. I learn more things about how tough Medicaid makes things every day, yet have no control right now over choosing any other type of insurance.

Akhilah, could you please send me a copy of the treatment plan - I realize you only recently began seeing Jackie, so a copy of the plan that Dani had might be the best thing in the interim. I know you are still formulating a plan for Jackie at the moment.

If you can send it to me, and to Beatriz, it would be great appreciated.

I'm confident that you both will be great for Jackie. By the way, I found some 'spinners' at my parents house for the game that Jackie and you were working on, and will try to remember to send them with Jackie tonight when Jackie heads back to her mom's house.

I'm heading into my bankruptcy hearing shortly. Wish me luck please.

John

p.s. You may fax the treatment plan if that is easier, to 502.996.8246 (my personal fax number that I have for medical record transfer purposes). Whatever is easier for you. Also - you should already have paperwork on file that allows you, and Seven County Services, to exchange information freely...and if you need any other paperwork please let me know. Thank you.

It is not okay with me to be emotionally abused at all - nor for Jackie to be - nor for it to happen every single day...

I need help to get me and Jackie to a safe place. I am totally exhausted. I am doing the best that I can do but there is zero understanding....literally zero.....less than zero.....

I don't know what I can do anymore. I've just declared bankruptcy - meeting of the creditors is Jan. 10th. Any landlord that checks my credit, due to the bankruptcy, will probably not allow me to stay there because I have a very low credit score presently due to the bankruptcy....I have been told that after the 10th of January....after the meeting of my creditors...and after the conclusion of the bankruptcy case, that I will have a higher score than I do right now. Before declaring bankruptcy I missed 4 payments on one card, and that sunk my score from fluctuating between 7xx and 6xx to 4xx. There was nothing I could do anyway though, because I could not afford to pay...hence the reason for the bankruptcy....

I am putting together a budget for you all to kind of see what I have going on.....it just is really upsetting to me that I am being treated in the ways that I am by my mother and father, and Jackie is being treated not right too.

I need to get the hell out of my parents house.

My dad was just very angry with me because I had a light on upstairs while I was carrying stuff down to the basement from the garage (from upstairs). The stairway is too dark for me to see otherwise and I have tripped on the stairs before while carrying things - keep in mind I have to wear flip-flops, and right now have a hurt right elbow/arm/nerve/cubital tunnel area... Akhilah - either way would be fine. I think Jackie needs some 1 on 1 time with you, but I am open to meeting for half of the session with you all if that is what you think is the best.

I just sent my own therapists a note, and I am going to send it to you too so you can have some context....

Also - the thing with consequences is there is so much dissociation that Jackie claims to not even remember doing the things that calls for the consequences (every time) - so then I don't know when there is true dissociation and when there is not. I have tried explaining manipulation to Jackie but Jackie does not get it - or claims not to.

If there is no memory of an event, then the consequences stands alone and does not make sense to Jackie - do you know what I mean?

Look for an email in a few minutes with regard to our current environment/context.

Subject: A few things

Lindsay - Jackie's mom, said she would go to get the passport if I made the appointment to go to the post office. I am in an I will believe it when I see it kind of state of mind.....before she said she would fill out the form if I printed it (which she didn't do), and then she said if I showed her how to fill it out (which I did), that she would do it (which she didn't), so we will see what happens.

I reminded her of the appointment tomorrow night - and want to verify with you also - that Jackie will have therapy tomorrow night.

I'm gonna send you some screen shots of the JCPS emails we keep getting about Jackie's account, but we are powerless to do anything because we do not have access to the account. Can you help us get Jackie's electronic data, and get that issue resolved? Do you know anyone at JCPS that can help?

Finally - I am very concerned about living with my parents. I would like to know if you could reach out on our behalf to Seven County Services, and to the Center for Women and Families to see if you can get us an Emergency Housing Choice Voucher (they have several available at times - but there is no way to know when or how many that I know of).

Today, my dad to Jack (he will not call Jack, Jackie) and me to lunch. Jackie voiced being afraid to go to the bathroom because of killer squids coming through the toilet. I have learned to be very non-judgmental in my life, and went with it, and was like okay - well just wait until we get back to the house, and then wash your hands. My dad was trying to force Jack (not Jackie) to go to the bathroom despite the fears. I understand where my dad is coming from - but he does not understand autism, nor how Jackie has become in recent years. It doesn't make a lot of sense. I strongly suspect that a lot of what Jackie has been going through is due to emotional abuse from Jackie's mother. I am aware of a lot that has occurred that I feel has been damaging. Don't get me wrong, I am sure that I have yelled and caused harm too at times, but not at all at the same degree or level as to what I believe my ex-wife has caused. That is my belief, and my perspective, and you and Jackie as you establish a relationship further, will be able to flush out more of what is happening. One example I can think of explicitly is that she called Jackie a 'Shitty Excuse of a Child' according to Jackie.

Not this summer, but the prior summer, Jack was trying to talk to his mom about feeling very unloved by her actions. She would not listen - outright refused, and that is when the extreme dissociation began occurring. I feel like Jackie created a new identity partly, too, to protect herself from the extreme emotional hurt. I get it - I grew up in a home with a very emotionally abusive mother (which is my other concern) - because we are going to be living with my mom and dad.

Mom mom told Jackie that she is not going to respect any boundaries and going to bust in the door anytime she wants to because it is her house and she will do whatever she pleases. She essentially told me the same thing but using other words. I described in the first sentence, how Jackie described things.

I feel like the Center for Women and Families might issue us a housing choice voucher, if they understood the full implications of the situation. I don't want my autistic child to have to have 2 identities in the same household (Jack and Jackie), nor be subjected to emotional abuse from my own mother too.

My mom and dad can both be great, and I love them both very much -- I would not even be here without them...the other problem is that I am not strong enough to be an emotional shield any longer....after living for years around narcissistic abuse, I have become very weakened - especially in its presence, and my physical state of health is already fragile. I have a new problem that I have to see about that I learned about this week - I am having AFib issues. Being around extreme stress is the opposite of what I need. Can you help us check out any options through 7 Counties and Center for Women and Families Akhilah?

Also, if you get a chance to talk to Lindsay, I really would like it if you could ask her about why the passport thing has been such a problem. I truly don't understand, and she would have been raging mad if I had treated her in the same way. I am just honestly too tired to be mad or angry all the time....and try to be as positive as possible because I believe that is the right way to be in life. I really like listening to Joe Dispenza - he is kind of 'out there' with regard to quantum theory and electromagnetism of living your future in your mind now before it happens so it can actually happen...but I really like his thought process.

I'm trying to look out for the best interest of Jackie and for me (for both of us) Akhilah....it is not going to be a pretty situation. Jackie 'had been' excited about it, but something happened that I have not even gotten a chance to talk to Jackie about...and now Jackie is not excited. I promised Jackie that I would do all I could to try to get us a place of our own soon, but I have basically run out of options at this point....well.....not all options....I have considered writing to billionaires, but I do not think my efforts would be fruitful - but you never know unless you try....

John

p.s. I hope you had a Merry Christmas if you celebrate Christmas! Or other holiday if something else! Santa left a Jenga game here for Jackie....and Sorry....and an electronic version of Yahtzee....tomorrow is the day I am moving most of the stuff out of my apartment. I have absolutely zero energy. Wish me luck. Talk to you soon.

Akhilah,

I am really struggling....I had to file bankruptcy this month....I am having to move in with my mom and dad - who DO NOT want us to be living there. My mom and dad told me they did not even have room for 25 binders.....so how in the hell am I supposed to move in there with my child and be okay? My mother is VERY emotionally abusive....my dad is very stand-offish....and just does what my mom yells for him to do.....he just wants peace....Jackie and me moving there are going to cause him to lose his peace.....it is complicated.....I have been desperately trying to find a way to get an emergency housing choice voucher, but I have struck out on all accounts....

In Nelson County, you have to be a resident to get on the list, otherwise all residents that join are always placed on the list in front of you (so in other words you never get a call).

In Jefferson County, we are number 4,9xx on the list....which is about a 5.5 year waiting period....

In the state of Kentucky....the waiting list is CLOSED and not accepting applications.

I have learned that the Center for Women and Families and Seven County Services both have emergency vouchers, but I don't know how to try to get one. Can you help?

Being around my mom who constantly YELLS about EVERYTHING.....and being around my dad, who refuses to recognize Jackie as Jackie and will only call Jackie Jack, and Jackie therefore having to have 2 identities in the same house, will not be okay for Jackie nor me. I have already had to be a strong emotional shield just going there for Christmas Dinner, and I cannot handle it - I am not strong enough to be what I need to be there....I cannot handle the emotional abuse and the gaslighting and the pathological lying that will take place.....but I have nowhere I can go otherwise.....standard public housing is not safe for an autistic child and a chronically ill person.....

I'm also having trouble securing food because I have to eat gluten free. I get $23 per month for SNAP for Jackie and me.....food pantries don't really have gluten free sections or anything.....and I don't have any money really right now. I have 2 or 3 more weeks of unemployment....then I am waiting on a decision from disability.....Just feeling like there is no light at the end of the tunnel really.....I know life will go on...but I need guidance....I need a guiding light haha. Another major problem is that we are living in the basement, and we will have to share a kitchen with my mother who is INCREDIBLY DEMEANING, CONDESCENDING, and HATEFUL - especially when you are in her space. She can also be very kind and loving, but most of the time that is not the side we get to see, sadly.

Do you know anyone at 7 County Services or at Center for Women and Families or anywhere else that can help us get an emergency Housing Choice Voucher? This is all new territory for me but I believe strongly that there MUST be a way for us to qualify somehow. Jackie has autism and adhd and gastroparesis and neuropathy etc....I have a list a mile long too.....

Just want to pick your brain on if you know of anything. And - with all that being said - to all a good night.....

I hope you all have a great Christmas and Happy New Year and all of that. Wish for me that I can find some kind of a girl to hang with - I haven't really been around one since my ex g/f died by suicide (which also impacted Jackie). Whole other topic to cover....I feel like all the therapy in the world cannot keep up with the continuous bombardment of trauma.

Let me know your thoughts whenever you get through the novel's worth of pages I sent you, and please know - that it is all simply so you can have a context of the situation overall for Jackie. I'm sure I have made tons of mistakes, but I have been trying my very best. I so very much appreciated it when you said I was doing a good job. Those words meant a lot to me. I can tell just by talking to you, that you must also be a very good parent/mother, and wanted to let you know that as well.

John

For the anger sheets...they have good information...but some is impractical for autistic children (and maybe adults).

As an example, Jackie used to go to timeouts, but now if I ask Jackie to go to timeout, Jackie might try to hurt me badly, or might become so emotionally dysregulated that Jackie cannot recover from the dysregulation for a few days...or might completely dissociate and have zero memory of any of the events. It has been my experience, very often with Jackie, that if Jackie gets angry, Jackie has absolutely no memory of anything when Jackie is calm again - and then cannot associate a consequence with the event. That has created even further anger issues at times. It has not always been this way - this is something that has developed in the last 2 or 3 years... mainly in the last 2 years.....

I really like the anger iceberg graphic - as Jackie - like many - is a visual learner. Jackie does have contempt for me at times - generally after Jackie comes back from Jackie's mom's house. She talks bad about me to Jackie very often, and quite frankly has zero right to do so. I was a good husband when I was married, and feel like I am still a great father (most of the time). I kind of fluctuate between feeling like a great father and feeling like a total failure as a parent. Jackie generally, from my perspective, gets angry because Jackie is tired, because of contempt, because of just not wanting to do things in general, etc... and because of shame some because Jackie has said things like Mommy has said that Jackie is a 'shitty excuse of a child'. I did not observe this, but this is something Jackie has stated happened. All I can say is it would not surprise me if this happened as Jackie's mother's behavior is completely unpredictable. There is some shame there from when Jackie was in school too because apparently teachers would say negative things about Jackie. I know in Kindergarten, Jackie's teacher, told the whole class that the class was great until Jackie came to the school, and the whole class was 'bad' because of Jackie (said it to the class...). I was SO ANGRY (that was in Bullitt County). I had a meeting with the principal of the school and the counselor, and was told that they could not do anything because that teacher had been there 27 years. They said all they could do was switch Jackie out of that class (with three weeks of school left or something). I said I did not think Jackie should be punished for the teacher's behavior - and thought about going to the school board - but thought it might cause retaliation. My mom is a teacher of special ed kids and has seen a lot, and guided me somewhat with those decisions.

I am familiar with the ACT items as I have tried ACT therapy myself. Jackie has such a complicated set of things going on - it makes it really hard to know what to do....the impulsivity from the ADHD makes it so Jackie has extreme difficulty thinking before acting and therefore doing any of the techniques like recognizing anger and then taking steps to calm down.....for the ACT therapy, Jackie is dealing with many of the same things that I am dealing with...neuropathy....gastroparesis...anxiety....depression....reflux....what Jackie has is very likely a hereditary thing....also has a sodium channel mutation that has been shown to cause small fiber neuropathy in a knockout mouse model, but the variant is presently listed as a VUS. It is a sodium channelopathy variant...the Autism makes the linking of the concepts a challenge for Jackie. I think I mentioned to you before that there is a major mold problem where I live that I am 100% is contributing to a decline in my health AND Jackie's health, and if I could find an attorney that deals in mold cases, I would absolutely request a consultation because I believe we have a very strong case. The property management company here knows there are problems too....and I don't know what's up...but it is weird....because 2 out of 4 apartments have been vacant for months, and they don't even have a for rent sign in the yard....they won't fix anything I ask them to fix....or I should say very few of the things get fixed....like we are talking 1 out of every 10 or 15 things gets done by maintenance....and the things I ask for are VERY REASONABLE....like a working security light out front instead of one that just doesn't come on and clicks every second....etc....

I had environmental testing done here....and have attached the reports....and some JCPS stuff - I am going to have to send other JCPS stuff separately.

Attachments: image.png

Okay Akhilah - thank you for the information. I am familiar with the process. Mom did not want to go to the post office with me to get it renewed..... I have asked so many times it is really ridiculous at this point.... I asked again today but the question was ignored again today.... I could get a court order and ask a judge to force her to sign, but I would prefer to not have to go that route - especially because my divorce attorney said it would cost $300 at least. I also think that I need to have the divorce agreement modified so that it is in alignment with actuality. Lindsay (mom) has had me do school with Jackie and be a 'built-in babysitter' during her weeks while she is at work pretty much since February when we started homeschooling Jackie. She does not give me any money for anything - not for any school supplies, not for any food, not for any activities....nothing....she has been working....I have had to file for disability...again...and am expecting them to deny me...again...as they have many times in the past....I am not presently able to work, however. I know my body 'looks' okay, but it isn't. I finally got a diagnosis that is solid for Sjogren's Syndrome (Type II) System Organ Involvement....it explains a lot....the neuropathy....the elevated liver enzymes....the dysphagia....the blurry vision and changing eyesight that is fairly constant in terms of changing, the double vision, the possible vasculitis, the arthritis issues, the fibromyalgia like syndromes, etc.... It can also be hereditary so it is on my radar to look out for that for Jackie.

The only thing that I can possibly think about the passport, is that she wants to wait until Jackie has fully transitioned if that is the route that Jackie truly chooses. But if that is what is going to happen, it is going to take years. She has not looked into any of that as far as I know.....first.....a patient has to be mentally stable....which Jackie is not.....and there has to be fairly long term stability.....hormone therapy can be started at Jackie's age now but it is not recommended at that age by about 50% of the communities that are out there, and it 'is' by the other 50%. I am not sure that Jackie 'truly' wants to be a girl. Jackie's mom has not paid much attention to Jackie for most of Jackie's life....Jackie's mom's sister....who she is WAY CLOSE TO....has 2 daughters.....when Jackie wears dresses and paints fingernails and acts girly, then suddenly mom pays close attention to Jackie.....so I am not sure if it is a situation where Jackie really truly wants to be a girl and believes he was born in the wrong body.....or if it is a case of Jackie knowing that the only way to get mom's attention is to 'be a girl', and to know that daddy will love Jackie no matter what....it is super weird in terms of timing too because about 2 years ago....Jackie was having a breakdown (one of the first severe breakdowns), and Jackie asked me to talk to mom with him. He told her how much he felt like she did not love him because she did not pay any attention to him....and her response (this took place in her car at my house when she came to pick him up).....was to tell me to get away from the car and that she didn't have time to listen to this nonsense....it is my opinion that she is a narcissist after living with her for so many years and knowing that she has little empathy and cares only about herself (again that is my opinion). I remember very distinctly when I was so ill one day I could not get out of bed, and I asked her if she could please get my medicine for me (I was taking quite a bit at that time - something like 27 rx and 18 supplements or maybe the other way around....), and she said 'no - you have two legs - you can fucking get it yourself'. Back then, she would also threaten to leave me without health insurance etc...because I was not able to work between 2016 and the end of 2017....it is much better now without having to be around her all the time....but that is some of the background....

Back to the passport and how the ideas link up....I feel like she may want to wait until after a transition has occurred, but I need Jackie to have the passport now so I can apply to programs like Make A Wish or related for Autism that may allow Jackie to travel to places like Paris, France, which is one of Jackie's bucket list places to go. It is actually #1 on Jackie's list to see the Eiffel Tower. Jackie's mom went to Paris this Summer for a writer's workshop....and I had to ask her if she would call Jackie while she was there so Jackie could at least experience it in some way. She did call, but I feel I should not have had to ask her to do so....to me that is a common sense kind of thing.....I will say....she did bring Jackie back some french deoderant, a chocolate french coin, and a few other things...so those were some nice things she did.....I am very sick Akhilah - I know I don't look it - or hope I don't anyway - but I have a bunch of health problems like Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, Sjogren's Syndrome Type II, Small Fiber Polyneuropathy, Autonomic Dysfunction, Cerebral Atrophy, etc...I really want to be able to go to travel with Jackie if I can find a way how...without any money....I had to declare bankruptcy this month....but I feel like if I don't find a way to get over there with Jackie soon, then I will not be able to make it happen for Jackie, and I am the only one that will try so hard to make such things happen.

Here was the latest emailed/written response I wrote to her....I copied my parents hoping it would make a difference, but of course it hasn't made any bit of difference....I have asked many times in addition to the below, and I have no patience left. She refuses to communicate.

Oh and back to the divorce agreement thing, since I have Jackie 100% of the time on my weeks, and 7:30am to 4:45-5:00pm Monday through Friday on her weeks, I feel strongly like that needs to be reflected on the actual divorce agreement paperwork. I cannot afford to pay my attorney to make these changes. Do you know anyone that will do this type of work pro-bono for poor people? I hate to call myself that, but that is what I am right now. I never in a million years imagined that life would be so difficult for me. I have always been a 'go-getter' and one of the hardest things about this illness is all of the limitations it has.....

I am crafting another email too with some questions about the anger stuff, and thoughts, etc... I hope you have such a very Merry Christmas Akhilah! I wish this for you and your whole family!!

This is the content of the last email to her....I verbally asked her in person today if she could at least tell me her reservations to which she just walked away from the car when I dropped Jackie off....so I just don't know what to do aside from a court order....but that will just make her talk about me badly more to Jackie....I hate that she still has control over me in many ways.....she knows I won't do anything that will lead to Jackie being hurt in any way if I can help it....and is manipulative like that.....I don't know how I could have ever been married to her - I feel like I did not even know who she was....anyway though - other email coming soon....to a theatre near you....please keep everything confidential....

Please Fill Out The Form So I Can Renew Jackie's Passport - I have been asking since early October

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com>
to Lindsay, Bob, Bonnia

Lindsay,

I have asked you many times to fill out this form, and you keep saying that you will - but there seems to often be an excuse.

You said you didn't have a printer...I printed out a copy for you....

You said she didn't know how to fill it out....so I sent you a video link on YouTube that was a few minutes long and asked you to watch the video.

You said you didn't have time to get it notarized, so I sent you information on how to have it notarized online so you would not even have to go anywhere - yet still - you have not completed the form.

I am not able to renew the passport without the form since you are the other parent, and we have a minor and are divorced. Children cannot renew their own passports until the age of 17.

As I noted before, I really do not think you would like it at all, if I were treating you in the way that you are treating me with regard to trying to get this done for Jackie.

And previously, I sent you all the times I had asked you.....

I asked on these dates by email:
October 5
November 7
November 10
November 17

I asked by text on:
October 25
November 3
November 8

I have asked verbally in person or on phone on:
November 4
November 11
November 18

Passport renewal takes 6 to 9 weeks once the application has been finalized and submitted...

Since Nov. 18, I have also asked you several more times, but instead of responding, you ignore my questions about it each and every time.

It is federal law that both parents have to do their part in order for a child's passport to be renewed.

Please get the form notarized, so that I can renew Jackie's passport. If you need me to re-send the link about how to fill out the form, I can do that. Or if you need me to re-send the link about how to have the form notarized by an online notary, I can do that also.

John

Were you able to get it to work? Jackie has suddenly had very angry outbursts toward me after having a fine morning - so I don't know what is wrong. All I know is I fed Jackie Burger King again and I got the suddenly extremely angry outburst version of Jackie - so I am thinking there may be a potential food allergen involved. Jackie keeps telling me I am a stupid man that she hates, and keeps saying that she wants to die over ever having to see me again. I told her that I hear that she feels that way, that I am sorry that she feels that way, and have asked her over and over why she feels that way - but she refuses to answer me and keeps saying I already know when I don't. I have been trying to teach Jackie - but Jackie is so angry at me all the time - I cannot handle the anger and rage directed toward me. I have tried to talk to Jackie but Jackie says she does not understand how she is possibly being mean to me. Is there any way that I could call you after Jackie's mom picks her up? I will not be able to talk in the way that I need to have privacy before then - is that okay?

I can tell you that with the 2 households - at mom's house there have not ever been any consequences for anything for the most part...

At my house, when Jackie was younger, consequences made sense to Jackie. Now that Jackie is older [and post-pandemic times], Jackie does not seem to be able to correlate consequences with behaviors....so since any consequences have led to suicidality...I have erred on the side of no consequences, but feel that is not the best course of action.

Jackie hears me as screaming and yelling all the time when I am not - and when I have not ever been that way. Don't get me wrong - there have been times when I have yelled...I am a human and make mistakes....Jackie's mother used to scream all the time and we used to argue a lot in front of Jackie which I feel was traumatic for Jackie when Jackie was younger and I accept my role and responsibility for those mistakes.

I don't know how to help Jackie with recognizing tone? Jackie also is very defiant - and in the five minute long video - that is a typical part of most school days - and I cannot continue to try to homeschool Jackie with that kind of defiance - because it causes me to not have any energy. This is something Jackie denies - but Akhilah.....I have many major health problems...one of them is Chronic Fatigue Syndrome...and on many days...I cannot even get out of my bed very much - or am stuck at home....not for lack of wanting to! I just have an energy crisis physiologically in my body....and some kind of mitochondrial dysfunction....

As a side note, and with some background.... I used to not ever think that Jackie would hurt me....and I used to think until about a year and a half ago that we had a really good relationship....then all of the sudden it was like everything took a 180 degree turn and suddenly I became the 'bad guy' somehow....Jackie became very defiant toward me (which is reminiscent of when Jackie learned the word 'No' at 2 years old)...and I have felt at a loss to be able to provide Jackie with the help that Jackie needs. In addition to the videos, I included some photos of an earlier incident where Jackie had gotten upset and started hitting me....so I was trying to do a safe hands hold...I was sitting in a kitchen chair....Jackie walked her legs up the wall and knocked the chair over backwards, and I legit was screaming in pain and could not move for a half an hour...after that happened...Jackie came up and kicked me really hard in the lower back.....I probably should have tried to call 911 but I did not want Jackie to get in trouble. I have not recovered fully from that incident....which happened on August 16th...still....and that was because Jackie didn't like that I remembered a toilet seat to be at a different place than Jackie remembered...later....on a different day...some weeks later...Jackie slammed me in between the door jamb and the bathroom door because Jackie was angry with me...the uncontrollable rage scares me...especially because I do not know its source....

There may be a simple one word explanation.....'Autism'..... but that is not good enough for me as an explanation....because I need to know how I can help Jackie become the best version of Jackie possible. I feel that is my job as a parent.

And please, do not get me wrong. I love Jackie with all of my heart! I would totally do anything for Jackie, and Jackie knows this in her heart. I know that she does because she tells me that she does sometimes.... [I am still getting used to calling Jack Jackie and to saying she/her instead of he/him, so please bear with me]. Jackie and I have had some really awesome times together in life and I want more of the awesome times for both of us. Jackie is an amazing child with an incredible amount of talent - especially in terms of creativity - and has a special ability to make anyone around her smile. I used to tell her that this was her superpower - and really - I believe it is - because not many people have that kind of ability to make other people feel happy. Jackie is also a great storyteller and a great artist - especially once Jackie gets more comfortable being around someone.

I have some immediate upcoming concerns because my dad will not recognize Jackie as Jackie [only will call her Jack], and will definitely not use she/her pronouns....my dad was born in 1944...and is old school.....out of necessity...due to medical issues....we are having to move in with my parents [we have had to live there before], and this will not be healthy for Jackie....my mom can also be very emotionally abusive - really to anyone around her - but she takes it out the most on those she loves.....she is also caring for her 93 year old mother...who is extremely emotionally abusive to her....so it is like she takes the abuse and then dishes it out....I need the cycle of abuse to end right here and right now.

I'm on the section 8 / housing choice voucher wait list but it is 5.5 years long....the medicaid waiver list is 6 years long. There are some emergency housing choice vouchers at seven county services and at center for women and families but I don't know how to gain access to those. Do you? This is all uncharted waters for me.

I won't bother you again unless you need more information, or until you reach out to me. I just felt that a longer background or a better picture of context might be helpful in terms of you and how you can help Jackie also - and me with parenting Jackie better - I am sure I need quite a bit of improvement myself....I never want to stop improving especially to be a better dad for Jackie...

Last thing I will throw out there is that where I live now - there is a mold problem - that the landlord has reffused to fix for a period of years now...I have lived here for 5 years and I am wondering if the mold has affected Jackie. The mold is primarily on the undersides of the floorboards....but mold toxicity can affect people very adversely.

Again, hope you have a very happy weekend.

Yes Akhilah - absolutely 100% fine. Thanks for asking. I will send the audio files here in a bit. I will try to cut it down to 3 of the shorter ones (so will only be a few minutes). I will have to send those links in a separate email though.

Thank you.

Hope you are having a good weekend.

I will have some things to bring during session that you can either take home, or I can email. I may reach out to you via phone one day next week as well, if that is okay, after our session with mom. Just to get some input, and maybe offer any insight I might have. Would that be alright as well?

Also, can you please, then with the holiday schedule included, send us both a full schedule - at least through the holidays - so we can see what days are off days for you at L.E.T.?

Lindsay's email address is: lindsayfoutscpa@gmail.com. Her phone number is (502) 475-6897. Email is probably the best way to reach her - or text msg.

Jackie really enjoyed meeting with you last night and is already excited about playing hockey again with you next week!

There should already be a form for release on file at L.E.T. but if I need to fill out a separate one that is okay. We had finally gotten Jackie approved for ABA but then before we even had our first session, the ABA therapist decided she could not take on another client.

We had 2 sessions with a speech therapist but she is on maternity leave until March.

We are on a waiting list for Occupational Therapy and have been for months.

Jackie sees a talk therapist at Seven County Services named Lindsey Smith (ROI on file already for L.E.T.) but if you need one specifically for your name - I understand - just let me know.

I have my own fax number for medical records or whatever (502) 996-8246.

Thank you Akhilah.

John

p.s. I would love to see a therapy plan with goals that we could measure progress toward.

Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

Again, I have looked through you alls notes so I can get better acclimated to what you all have been working towards, but definitely would like to speak about it in person so we can be on the same page about what is best for Jackie.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
> Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
> Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

Hi Akhilah!

Happy Saturday! There are a lot of concerns - I've listed a few here... Jackie has several physical health ailments that are similar to those that I have. Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

John

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer
